Flying From Asia
Strange Church Group
12 Billion Slaves at Work
Eternal Peace, $625

—By Arthur Brisbane—

AMERICANS are keeping an eye on the plan of Lieutenant Harold Bromley to hop the Pacific from Japan to Tacoma. Japan also will watch the attempt even more closely.

If present day airplanes make the flight possible Japan would like to know it and have us know it.

Our government lacks the energy to protect itself in the air with a fleet capable of crossing any ocean.

The knowledge that Asia could do it might make us more polite, and Japan feels that our immigration laws show lack of international courtesy.

This will interest every clergyman in the land and cause much controversy. A magnificent new church is building on Riverside Drive, New York, for the very brilliant Dr. Fosdick's congregation, which includes John D. Rockefeller, Jr., largest contributor to the church.

On the tympanum of the church door will be displayed symbolical groups of figures, including Christ, some angels and Professor Albert Einstein, of relativity fame.

There will be other "private citizens" shown with the angels, but none now living, except Einstein.

Ralph Waldo Emerson will be there, the only American.

Hippocrates, Archimedes, Euclid, Galileo, Newton, Darwin, Pasteur, Faraday, are some of the others. In such company Darwin surely will stimulate discussion.

The grouping is based on Matthew, 23rd Chapter, Seventh Verse, which describes Christ, looking down on Jerusalem, saying "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, that killeth the prophets, and stoneth them that are sent unto her."

Biblical prophets are in the group, while Darwin and other scientists, presumably, represent modern prophecy.

Tennessee, which recently tried and convicted Darwin, will be agitated.

There is something appropriate in choosing Einstein as the only living man in a group that includes Christ.

Only seven men in the world, it is said, can understand Einstein's teaching, and they are not quite sure about it.

Every man and woman, and every child ten years of age can understand the Sermon on the Mount, and the divine command, "Love one another."

In ancient Athens, with slaves far outnumbering free men, a benevolent philosopher said that slavery must always exist, because, with no slaves, everyone must work, and there would be no leisure class to develop philosophy, the arts and sciences. The philosopher was right. Better partial slavery than stagnation.

But man's genius supplies him with slaves of steel, moved by steam and electricity, far beyond imagination. Professor Roe, who teaches industrial engineering in New York University, says that machinery in the United States alone generates power equal to that of twelve billion slaves, working under the lash. If the population of the earth were multiplied by five, if they were all slaves and adults, there would be lacking four billion slaves to do the work that machines do in the United States now.

Man's earthly salvation will be found and all his problems solved in his own brain. For the present stump problem, following the murderous war, will be solved.

The Jewish Telegraph Agency reports an interesting happening in the Midgal Jewish colony near Jerusalem. A Bedouin of the Arbelhip Arab tribe was found shot dead in a banana grove belonging to Jewish colonists. He had, perhaps, been caught pilfering.

It was a dangerous situation that might start a blood feud. Representatives of Bedouins and Jewish colonists met and signed a peace pact "to reign between us from now until eternity."

Bedouins and Jews, face to face, then held the Bedouin tribal rod. A silk handkerchief was put over it, the Jews tied two knots and the Bedouins three in the handkerchief. Then came the vow of eternal peace, and the Jewish elders embraced the relatives of the dead man.

As in bigger wars, the question of reparations arose, and the Jewish elders, after the oath of peace, paid $250 in cash to the dead man's relatives, agreeing to pay $375 more within two months.

That peace, like some others, may last, but probably will not. According to the learned Dean Inge, the incident is interesting

FRENCH FLIERS LAND TO ROAR OF 20,000

By GEORGE RAMBLIN

To the thundering welcome of thousands gathered at Boston Airport, the French transatlantic fliers, Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, arrived in Boston today from [illegible] via Hartford, Conn., and Providence, R. I.

They came to Boston [illegible] start of Boston's [illegible] celebration and to participate in the International Court of Honor [illegible] Boston Tercentenary. [illegible] Spitzbergen, [illegible] Frenchmen, in their [illegible] appeared out of the [illegible] south at 3:50 p. m. [illegible] minutes before [illegible] of the transatlantic [illegible] the ground.

More than 20,000 persons were at the airport to greet the pilots who reversed the Lindbergh air trail over the ocean, and police had their hands full in keeping the throngs back of the barriers.

MEET FRENCH CONSUL

The Frenchmen were officially welcomed by a committee headed by Mayor Curley and Joseph J. C. Flamand, French counsul.

To welcome the transatlantic fliers in the air and lead them into Boston, two flights of planes, one Army and one National Guard, took off half an hour before the expected arrival and cruised toward Hartford.

The Army formation of five planes of the training type was led by Lieut. Joseph A. Wilson, commanding officer of the Army air detachment at Boston Airport. Maj. Louis E. Boutwell led the National Guard formation of five service Falcons. That all at the airport might hear the greeting to the transatlantic fliers and hear

HEARST GIVEN BIG WELCOME BACK HOME

Veterans, Congressmen Join in Greeting; Publisher Is Delighted by French Distinction

New York, Sept. 15 (INS)—William Randolph Hearst, American publisher who recently was requested by the government of France to leave that country, returned to New York today aboard the liner Europa and was accorded a hearty welcome.

The steamer Hook Mountain, bearing a delegation of disabled veterans and [illegible] met the Europa [illegible] and [illegible] and Grand Bound, of New Jersey, met the Europa [illegible] the bay and [illegible] the [illegible] was given a [illegible] welcome by [illegible] as the vessel [illegible] tes of welcome for distinguished guests, and a large delegation. Whistles and sirens screamed a welcome as the excursion boat came into the harbor.

GRATIFIED BY DISTINCTION.

Immediately upon disembarking from the Europa the publisher issued the following statement:

"I have said that I did not complain of my expulsion from France.

"I think I should say instead that there is no distinction in my 67 years which has given me more genuine gratification.

"Moreover, I hope and believe that this distinction is one I have actually deserved.

"For nearly 50 years I have been active in journalism. I take the obligations of my profession very seriously. I think a newspaper owes a great debt to the public, and that the newspaper's first duty is to keep its public fully and accurately informed about all important matters which affect the public's safety and welfare.

"There is a lot of trivial news which must perfunctorily be printed, but the vital obligation of a newspaper is to print the important news, to print it without political bias or personal prejudice.

RECOGNITION OF SERVICE

"This I have always tried to do, and the action of France in my case is, I consider, merely conspicuous recognition by a great nation of the honorable fact that I have done my full duty to my own people and to my chosen profession."

Newport, R. I., Sept. 15—With what seemed the utmost ease, Enterprise, defender, triumphed again today over Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock V., in the second of their series of races to settle international yachting supremacy.

Enterprise led all the way over the triangular 20-mile course. With Harold S. Vanderbilt at the wheel she was admirably handled and the green-hulled challenger never had a real chance. It was an even more impressive victory than Enterprise achieved on Saturday.

LEADS FROM START

Ernest (Ted) Heard, at the helm of Shamrock, fought a losing battle from the start and lost precious minutes at each turn when he reached for the mark too early and was forced to pull up the challenger.

Ahead of him all the way was the towering mast and wind-filled sails of the Enterprise.

Right at the start today Vanderbilt and Enterprise captured a good lead, going over the line promptly on schedule at 11:40 a. m. and so ling fast, though Shamrock started in the weather berth.

TEN-MILE WIND

A nice sailing breeze of about 10 miles an hour velocity was blowing and the visibility, which earlier in the forenoon had not been any too good, was steadily improving.

Shortly after the start Enterprise was not only footing faster but was sailing closer to the wind than the challenger. Enterprise took a lead in the first 10 minutes that gave

Lower Auto Rate for Boston, Chelsea, Revere

The rates for compulsory automobile insurance in Boston will be reduced in the 1931 schedule to be announced this evening by Insurance Commissioner Brown.

"I, is expected that the rates will be promulgated today with such reductions as are warranted by the information submitted at the public hearing and subsequent investigation."

Honor to Salter Opens Tercentenary Fete

The highlight of tonight's program of the Boston Tercentenary observance will be the parade of 28 illuminated floats and tableaux over a 2½-mile route starting at 8 o'clock. Approximately 1,000,000 persons are expected to view the spectacle.

With five years of primping and planning behind her, all aflutter and arrayed in her go-to-meeting best, Old Dame Boston today began the greatest celebration in her history.

Bedecked in flags and bunting, excited as a schoolgirl at commencement, she laid aside the last bit of Puritanical conservatism to start her week-long observance of the Tercentenary of the Massachusetts Bay Colony founding, gathering to her ample bosom some 200,000 guests and the cream of a host of visiting dignitaries from other states and nations.

Today's program was featured by hree outstanding events. First was the arrival of Mayor Reuben talt. and his party from Boston, England, as the special guests for he long list of activities that ex- and through next Saturday.

,000,000 TO SEE PARADE.

Second was the flight from New York to Boston of Capt. Costes and Lieut. Bellonte, French transat- antic airmen, and a parade and Boston Common celebration in heir honor.

The day's highlight will be the nomster parade of 58 floats and il- luminated tableaux starting at 8 /clock tonight. Nearly 1,000,000 ersons are expected to review it. long a 9½-mile route.

The climax of the observance will be attained on Wednesday, Boston Day, with the great parade which, starting at noon, will not end until 7 p. m. City officials and olice are planning to handle more han 2,000,000 spectators, many of whom will journey from distant arts of this and other countries for he spectacle.

00 MAYORS COMING

Vanguard of the dignitaries were Mayor Salter and his party; Maj- Jen. Hugh Havelock McLean, Lieu- enant-Governor of New Brunswick, and Justice Oswald S. Crockett of the New Brunswick Su- preme Court, and Mayor Fred Lee, of Coventry, England.

Tomorrow and Wednesday will se the arrival of some 50 governors, including the chief executive of all the New England states, and upwards of 100 mayors of New England and Canadian cities.

William Randolph Hearst radioed rom the S. S. Europa acceptance of Mayor Curley's wirelessed invita- ion to be the city's special guest of honor to review the parade. Secretary of the Navy Charles rancis Adams will also be home o participate.

From Washington will come rep- resentatives of the national govern- ment and of the service branches.

ITY IS BEDECKED

The vanguard of the city's guests olled in by motor yesterday, and his morning the influx assumed greater proportions, with all hotels crowded. Flags and bunting hung from the principal buildings, be- decked as never before.

Mayor Salter arrived at the North Station at 7 a. m. from Quebec, where he landed yesterday from England. In his party were Dep- uty Mayor and Mrs. Edward A. Bai- ey, City Councillors James Tait nd James Mountain and John Rob- inson, an English newspaperman, ho came to "cover" the Old Dame's rch- ibration.

With them were Col. Percy A. Suthrie, who met them at Quebec as Mayor Curley's representative, nd F. Greene of the Boston Typo- raphical Union and E. P. Pringle of the Canadian National Railway.

A crowd of about 200 gathered about the rain as they set foot in Boston to receive the felicitations of City Greeter Thomas J. Johnson, Standish Wilcox, Mayor Curley's ocial secretary; George E. Leigh- on of the mayor's reception com- mittee and T. Frank Joyce of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

The English party will stay through the week and take part in nearly every event of the celebra- tion.

An informal breakfast at the Ritz-Carlton was followed by an automobile tour of the city during which the visitors, of old Boston found new Boston very similar to many English cities in architecture. Maj. Gen. McLean and Justice Crockett were with the English visitors.

They were taken to City Hall fol- lowing the tour and there received by Mayor Curley.

JOIN IN DEDICATION

James M. Curley, Jr., who vis- ited Mayor Salter in Boston, Eng- land, several weeks ago, renewed acquaintances. Mrs. Bailey sat in the Mayor's chair and obeyed Mayor Curley's warning not to do any "housecleaning."

Tercentenary medals were pinned on the visitors by the mayor.

There was a crowd of about 150 in front of City Hall when the party arrived, and more than 500 cheered them when they departed for the State House, Mayor Curley with them.

There Mayor Salter, clad in the scarlet robe of his office, occupied for a few moments the lieutenant- governor's chair, with Mayor Cur- ley, perhaps for the first time in history, in charge of a State House reception.

Governor Allen was in Spring- field and Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner extended to the visitors the greetings of the State. They re- mained at the State House a short time, visiting the Hall of Flags, then leaving for Blossom and Park- man sts., where the sixth health unit established under the George Robert White fund was dedicated as a part of the Tercentenary ob- servance.

Gen. Logan, director of the fund and chief marshal of the parade on Wednesday, presided at the ex- ercises.

The exercises were held in the auditorium of the new building with about 200 in attendance. Rabbi Samuel J. Abrams of Temple Ohabei Shalom pronounced the in- vocation. Representing the trus- tees of the White fund, Henry I. Harriman accepted the keys to the unit from Louis B. Abbott, the architect.

ADDRESS BY GEN. FRANKEL

The dedicatory address was given by Gen. Lee K. Frankel, vice-presi- dent of the Metropolitan Life In- surance Co. Speakers included Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, health com- missioner; Dr. Charles F. Wilinsky, deputy commissioner in charge of the health units, City Councillor John I. Fitzgerald and Mayor Cur- ley, who received the keys from Harriman in behalf of the city.

The visiting dignitaries were pre- sented by Mayor Curley and the crowd stood in silent tribute to the memories of White and his sister, Mrs. Harriet Bradbury, and George E. Phelan, later manager of the fund.

An orchestra played the national anthem and benediction was pro- nounced by Rev. Charles E. Heaney, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, West End.

GREET FRENCH FLIERS.

A luncheon given by Mayor Cur- ley at the Ritz Carlton in honor of the new health unit was attended by some 200 of the city's most prominent citizens with the English and Canadian visitors as special guests. Speeches were dispensed with because of the heat.

The foreign dignitaries then motored to the Customs House and thence to Gardner Museum for brief receptions, following which, again with Mayor Curley, they went to the airport to greet the French fliers.

The parade tonight will start at 8 p. m. It will be at least one and a half hours in passing, and 58 units will participate. A series of elaborate floats will depict the 300 years of Boston's history.

Typical of these floats will be the "Battle of Lexington," spon- sored by the Metropolitan Electri- al League, representing all branches of the electrical industry in Greater Boston.

Mayor Curley, Mayor Salter, and other distinguished visitors will lead the parade and will then re- view it from the grand stand on Tremont st. Grand Marshal Carroll J. Swan and his staff will review the procession in Park sq.

"Welcome to new Boston, your worship," was Greater Johnson's greeting to Mayor Salter at the North Station.

"Thank you for your welcome," was Mayor Salter's response.

He explained he had planned to enter through the port of Boston and had engaged passage on a ship docking here before the other members of his party decided to come and it was necessary to trans- fer to another ship.

LIKES OUR TRAINS

"I plan to stay with you until about Sept. 26 when I will sail for home on the S. S. Caronia from New York.

"Your American trains are most comfortable," he said, com- menting upon the trip from Que- bec. "They are more comfortable and the accommodations are bet- ter than those of the English trains.

"American hospitality is pro- verbial, and I am overwhelmed by your reception. I think you may get fed up with Mayor Salter, a little old mayor from a provincial town."

He will be 56 years old on Sept. 27. He is short and rather slight with iron gray hair and moustache. During the various events he wore the scarlet robe and cocked hat of his office.

The wife of Deputy Mayor Bailey, the only woman in the party, is on her first visit.

"I expect to find American women very entertaining, and I am looking forward to meeting many of them," she said.

Hearst to Be Honor Guest of Boston on Wednesday

William Randolph Hearst, who lands in New York from Europe today, will be one of the guests of honor of the city of Boston on Wednesday.

Mr. Hearst, in a radio message from the liner Europa at sea, ac- cepted Mayor Curley's invitation extended on behalf or the city.

"I highly appreciate invitation extended by you to be the guest of city of Boston at celebration of 300th anniversary of establish- ment of Massachusetts Bay Colony and accept with many thanks," Mr. Hearst radioed the mayor.

This acceptance was in reply to the following invitation sent to Mr. Hearst by wireless by Mayor Cur- ley:

"The city of Boston will ob- serve on Wednesday, Septem- ber 17, the 300th anniversary of the establishment of the Massa- chusetts Bay Colony. More than 50,000 citizens will parade and 5,000,000 visitors are expected.

"The Dominion of Canada gov- ernment officials, the mayor of every city in Canada and the Provinces and the mayor of Bos- ton, England, with leading Amer- ican officials, including Secre- tary of the Navy Adams, 10 gov- ernors and 100 mayors, are to be our guests.

"The occasion marks the begin- of free government in the world and, in view of the recent brutal assault upon the principle of free government, Boston extends and wants you to accept an invita- tion to be honor guest of the city and occupy position upon court of honor at right of the mayor as one American who earns the right to this distinction."

Mayor Russell Invites Hearst to Cambridge

Mayor Richard M. Russell of Cambridge today telegraphed Wil- liam Randolph Hearst to visit his- toric Cambridge while here as the guest of Boston.

The telegram read:

"Please accept my cordial invi- tation to visit Cambridge before you leave Boston as the guest of that city at its tercentenary cele- bration. A visit to Cambridge will revive pleasant memories of days when you attended Harvard University.

(Signed) "RICHARD M. RUSSELL."

WALTER ADAMS DROPS DEAD

Walter E. Adams, special assist- ant to the vice-president of the Boston & Albany railroad, dropped dead today in the main ballroom of the Copley Plaza in view of more than 1000 men and women.

Mr. Adams, 68 years old, a for- mer newspaperman and for several years city editor of the Boston Her- ald, was speaking for Vice-Presi- dent H. M. Biscoe of the Boston & Albany, before the 12th annual con- vention of the American Associa- tion of Railroad Ticket Agents.

He had said but a few words when he clutched at his side in an agony of pain. His heart had failed. Mrs. W. J. Leahy of Chi- cago, a delegate, and wife of a delegate, stepped quickly forward to assist him. He was past all aid, however.

Mr. Adams had been with the Boston & Albany ever since he gave up newspaper work, Novem- ber 1, 1897. He was born in Augusta, Me., July 15, 1862, and was asso- ciated with the Boston Post from 1886 to 1896, and with the Boston Herald from 1896 to 1907.

He was single and lived at the Hotel Somerset in Malden. So far as is known his only close relative is a cousin, Miss Nellie Lakeman of Malden.

1200 POLICE IN PARADE GUARD

The second largest police detail in Boston's history will have charge of the more than 1,000,000 persons expected to witness the great Ter- centenary parade, Wednesday.

In it there will be 1200 policemen detailed from the 22 divisions with the division captains in charge of each unit.

Commissioner Hultman, who de- clined a place in the reviewing stand in order that he might give all his attention to the policing of the parade, will personally super- vise arrangements Supt. Crowley will go over the parade route twice, some time before the start and again five minutes before.

Twelve mounted officers will lead the parade and four others will bring up in the rear; 20 motorcycle policemen will be on skirmish duty up and down the parade route. More than 100 plain clothesmen will mingle with the crowd on a hunt for pickpockets and suspicious persons, against whom a drive was launched today.

On order of Commissioner Hult- man, all days off and vacations go over until next Thursday.

During the parade, the various di- visions will be covered by automo- bile patrols carrying machine and riot guns and tear bombs.

The largest police detail in the city's history was that accorded Alfred E. Smith during the presi- dential campaign here on October 24, 1928, when 1336 men were as- signed.

Gen. Hamilton Due in New York Today

New York, Sept. 15—Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, the British soldier in command of the ill-fated Gallipoli offensive, will arrive today with 141 other delegates to the 17th annual Fidac congress in Washington and New York.

Pick R. R. Station as Polling Place

The Wyoming station of the Bos- ton & Maine in Melrose will be used as the polling place for Precinct 2 of Ward 3 tomorrow. Melrose city authorities, unable to find a suit- able location for a voting booth, to- day made arrangements to this effect with railroad officials.

BOY-ED, GERMAN NAVAL CHIEF, KILLED

Falls From Horse While Riding in Hamburg; Was Once Propaganda Head

Hamburg, Sept. 15 (AP)— Capt. Karl Boy-Ed, former Ger- man naval attache at Washing- ton expelled during the World War, fell off his horse and was kille dtoday while riding.

Capt. Boy-Ed was director of the Kaiser's propaganda for a greater navy and chief lieutenant of Grand Admiral Von Tirpitz, secretary of the navy.

Boy-Ed's home occupation was "chief of the news division" directi- ng practically the entire intelli- gence service of that branch of the German war establishment.

The American government re- quested his recall because of his propaganda activities directed largely against the "English peo- ple" and to the urgent necessity of more dreadnoughts and submarines.

2 HELD IN BOGUS COIN CASE

A counterfeit coin stamping plant has been discovered in an Attleboro barn, it was revealed in Federal Court today, when a man and a woman, both residents of that city, were arraigned in con- nection with its existence.

James E. Fitzpatrick and two other department of justice agents from Providence found the coun- terfeit mould and stamping appar- atus in a barn in Reed st., Attle- boro, it was testified before U. S. Commissioner Jenney.

Florida Roy, alias Florida Roy Bernard, and John Piamondo were arraigned on a charge of having moulds in their possession and also in $1000 bail for a hearing Satur- day.

In the presence of all the Eng- lish visitors and numerous city and State dignitaries, Mayor Curley to- day removed the oil-silk wrappings from the baton carried 100 years ago next Wednesday in a parade celebrating Boston's 200th birthday.

The baton was carried in the parade by Brig.-Gen. William Sul- livan, chief marshal, and in this year's Tercentenary parade will be carried by Lieut.-Gen. Edward L. Logan, retired.

With the baton was a letter from Gen. Sullivan to the chief marshal of the 1930 celebration parade.

FOES OF LEAGUE COURT CHEER SHAW'S VICTORY IN COLORADO

BARES PUBLIC TREND, SAYS RUTH HANNA

Hiram Johnson Sees Growth of Opposition to Mixing in Foreign Affairs

Washington, Sept. 15—Republican Senators and senatorial candidates, while differing widely on domestic issues, were joining today in acclaiming the decisive victory scored by George H. Shaw in Colorado's Republican senatorial primary on the Anti-League Court issue.

In telegrams from many sections of the country these leaders voiced the opposition of the American people to this adjunct of the League of Nations, which was again demonstrated in the Rocky Mountain State.

Sen. Johnson

"Another warning by the rank and file of the Republican party to its misguided leaders," declared Senator Hiram Johnson of California in vigorously commenting upon the repudiation of the League Court by the voters of Colorado.

ATTITUDE OF THE PEOPLE

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, who defeated Senator Deneen of Illinois for the Republican senatorial nomination in that State last April with the League Court as the dominant issue, said:

"The victory of George Shaw as a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from Colorado is another significant sidelight on the attitude of the people toward the proposal to put the United States in the League Court."

The revolutions in South America and the chaotic conditions in many European nations were cited by Senator Otis F. Glenn of Illinois as compelling arguments for America to mind her own business at home.

Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, one of the League of Nations irreconcilables and chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, declined to comment upon the Shaw victory until he had personally canvassed the situation in Colorado.

Sen. Moses

Senator Johnson said:

"In Colorado Mr. Shaw made his fight on the distinct issue of keeping our country out of European controversies, either through the League of Nations, the League of Nations Court or otherwise, and upon this issue the response of the people has been immediate and emphatic.

"If the Republican leaders persist in their secret endeavors and succeed surreptitiously in involving America in Europe's politics they will not only be rudely awakened and shocked but they will do the Republican party the greatest dis-service and irretrievable harm.

"The admirable statement of Mr. Shaw in the Hearst papers of Saturday should be read by every patriotic American. It states the case so plainly and so well that even internationalists ought to pause and ponder. He is eternally right. We are all for peace. We can preserve it best and do most good by minding our own business and being just American."

TESTS OF PUBLIC OPINION

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick said:

"The victory of George H. Shaw as a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from Colorado is another significant sidelight on the attitude of the people toward the proposal to put the United States into the League Court. The campaign conducted by Mr. Shaw made a direct issue of the League Court question just as it was the dominating issue in last spring's primary in Illinois.

Mrs. McCormick

"It is well to have these tests of public opinion so that the Senate may have all information available as to American sentiment."

300 Watertown School Strikers Can't Get In

Because their parents refused to sign notes promising co-operation with the school committee, more than 300 boy and girl pupils of Watertown high school were barred from school today when they reported back, having called off their strike against longer hours.

Approximately 100 more who returned with notes were admitted to classes. A score or more were tarred at the two junior high schools.

Angry parents, barred from last night's school committee discussion of the matter and told the whole thing was "none of their business," according to their statements, plan a protest meeting tonight.

The purpose of this meeting, they declared, is to find some means of forcing the school board to hear their side of the argument over the extension of school hours from 1:30 to 2:45.

This meeting is tentatively planned for Saltonstall Park. Edward D. Holland today asked the park commission for a permit, but the commission did not think a permit was necessary. However, they were conferring with Town Counsel Julian to ascertain if their stand is right.

When the 300 turned away today from the high school by Principal Edward H. Whitehill emerged from the building they found Police Chief John F. Milmore and a squad of officers at the scene.

French Fliers Hop for Boston Visit

Enterprise Holds Big Lead From Start

This he did at 11:53. The green challenger was about five boat lengths under his lee as he did so. Vanderbilt only held the port tack until he had worked up to weather of Shamrock, then returned to the starboard tack.

All Vanderbilt had to do to check the Shamrock was to bear down on her and blanket her with his copp towering spread of sails, which maneuver would almost empty the wind from Shamrock's sails.

Enterprise took the port tack at 12:05 p. m., and so did Shamrock. But Shamrock held to this tack for a minute or two.

Sir Thomas' sloop was trying desperately to catch up, but Vanderbilt was maneuvering the Enterprise with great skill and judgment.

He seemed to be able to spin the defender about like a dancer, hardly losing a second in doing so. His crew, too, showed an agility that far surpassed the seamanship of the British tars.

NEAR FIRST TURN

Again, at 12:18, Shamrock went over on her port tack, and almost immediately the alert Enterprise did likewise. The Defender returned to the windward and well out ahead of the British boat.

Vanderbilt was playing cat and mouse with the Shamrock. He had the challenger at his mercy, outwitting Capt. Heard time and again.

With the turning marker almost in striking distance at 12:45, an hour and five minutes after the start, Shamrock went over on the starboard tack.

Enterprise followed the maneuver closely and Capt. Heard quickly went back to the port tack again.

Again Shamrock seemed to have gained nothing by the shifts. In fact the advantage was with Enterprise, due to her crew's quicker sail handling.

Shortly after 1 p. m. Shamrock tacked again, but Skipper Vanderbilt held on the starboard tack, heading for the marker that showed a third of the race was run, apparently satisfied that he had the situation well in hand.

Enterprise rounded the 10-mile marker at 1:21 p. m. The Lipton boat followed her around at 1:37.

Capt. Heard seemed to have difficulty in bringing the green sloop up to the marker. He appeared to have reached a trifle early and was then forced to pinch the challenger so hard that she almost lost way.

Six minutes out in front, Enterprise proceeded along the second leg of the triangle at a smart gait.

PASS SECOND MARK

Shamrock V. continued to view the stern of the defender. Enterprise maintained her commanding lead, riding smoothly in a gentle swell, to which Shamrock did not seem to take for she plunged sluggishly. Enterprise kept her bow well up under the guidance of her master's expert hand.

Both yachts broke out ballooners after rounding the first turn, for on the second leg of the course the wind was blowing over their starboard rails.

Enterprise had increased her lead over Shamrock to approximately two miles at 1 o'clock in addition to balloons, both boats were carrying staysails.

Enterprise rounded the 20-mile mark at 1:22:25 (E. S. T.). She was two miles or more ahead of the British boat and making a poorer match of it than on Saturday.

Shamrock rounded the marker at 2:31:35, 9 minutes 10 seconds behind Enterprise.

The American boat had made the second leg of the 30-mile course in an hour and one minute as compared to the hour and 40 minutes she required to complete the first leg. The second ten miles was a reach as compared to a windward beat for the first leg.

Enterprise put the wind off her port quarter and almost directly astern as she turned for home.

Shamrock was so far behind that she could not be easily distinguished among the fleet accompanying her.

10-Foot X-Ray Tube Built to Handle 600,000 Volts

Pasadena, Cal., Sept. 15 (AP)—A new giant X-ray tube which designers believe will unleash healing powers which cannot be surpassed by use of radium has been developed at the California Institute of Technology here.

The tube, measuring 10 feet in length and 12 inches in diameter was designed and developed by Dr. C. C. Lauritsen and associates. Dr. Robert A. Millikan, noted psychist, acted in an advisory capacity.

In appealing to psychs to revise a more powerful X-ray tube, Dr. Rollin H. Stevens of Detroit, secretary of the Radiological Research Institute, recently said:

"We now produce X-rays of from 8000 to 250,000 volts, and if we went to 300,000 or 400,000 volts we could get practically radium rays from an X-ray tube, and we know results would be much better. But we cannot go that high for we lack the tubes to stand it."

Dr. Lauritsen and his associates said they were producing X-rays with more than 600,000 volts.

Rays from the tube can be detected through two inches of lead and are apparent through more than two feet of concrete.

BOSTON NAVAL OFFICER SHOT TO DEATH

Lieut. Woodward Phelps of the U. S. Navy, eldest son of Rear Admiral William Woodward Phelps, was found dead last night aboard the U. S. S. Northampton in dry dock at the Brooklyn navy yard, with a bullet wound in his temple.

Lieut. Phelps' home was at 239 Beacon st., Boston.

Capt. Vernou of the cruiser said no reason was known why the young officer should have committed suicide, and declined to call the death a suicide until official report was made.

Lieut. Phelps was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1924. He was 29 and had married a Maryland girl.

Lieut. Commander Benjamin F. Staud, who was Lieut. Phelps' executive officer on the destroyer Noa in Chinese waters, committed suicide last Friday aboard the cruiser Houston at Southampton, England.

Whether there was any connection between the two deaths is not known. Lieut. Commander Staud directed the firing on Nanking on March 24, 1927, to cover the evacuation of 155 Americans and was given credit for saving their lives. His class at Annapolis was 1917.

Lieut. Phelps' father has been commandant of the navy yard at Portsmouth, N. H., since 1928. He formerly was chief of staff of the Naval War College, member of the Navy's general board and commander of the fleet base force.

Phelps leaves a widow, Mrs. Janet Bell Phelps, and a son, Woodward, Jr.

Lieut. Phelps and Miss Janet Bell Whitall, social register belle of Baltimore and Boston, eloped in Boston in January, 1929, when he was stationed aboard the U. S. S. Florida, then at the Boston navy yard and due to sail for sea the next day.

They had been engaged for about a month and were to have wed at an elaborate ceremony the following May. Deciding to have it over with, they obtained a license and waiver and were married by Atty. Matthew Peters, justice of the peace, in his office at 6 Beacon st.

Pleads Not Guilty in Killing of O'Brien

Thomas G. Healey, 19, pleaded not guilty in Norfolk Superior Court today to the charge of killing Patrolman Joseph O'Brien of Brookline on August 3. Court allowed a motion to appoint William G. Todd his counsel. No date was set for trial.

Paul Hurley, said to have been Healey's companion, has never been captured.

Coste's Map Is Magic Key for Pair Who Picked It Up

Several hours before the French transatlantic fliers were due in Boston there appeared at the airport Louise Stef, 16, and her brother, John, Jr., 13, both of Portsmouth, N. H.

They are the brother and sister who picked up in a Portsmouth field the map used by Coste and Bellonte on their flight westward across the ocean—and they have refused to give it to anyone but the fliers personally.

When airport officials learned the identity of the two visitors they were entertained and were given airplane rides.

SAYS DRAPER IS MAIN ISSUE

A "last word to voters" rally in the interest of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment was held in Faneuil Hall at noon today.

It was under the sponsorship of the Liberal Civic League and presided over by Conrad W. Crooker of that organization, the burden of whose appeal was that all voters go to the primaries tomorrow so that the nomination of Eben S. Draper may be assured.

He reviewed the campaign and said that neither the tariff nor the unemployment situation was the main issue, but that the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment was vital to the country's welfare.

Mrs. Frank P. Scanlan of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, and Thomas M. Benson of Winchester, were other speakers.

BLIMP TO TAKE UP SIGHTSEERS

The air-minded in Boston on Wednesday will be offered a new thrill when the blimp Neponset arrives at Boston Airport from Chatham to taxi passengers over the big parade during the afternoon.

It will mark the first time that commercial passengers have ever been taken up in a lighter-than-air ship from the local airport.

William Maude will be pilot of the blimp and ticket arrangements are in charge of Eddie O'Toole, manager of the Consolidated Air Ticket office at the airport.

The blimp, owned by the New England Airship Co., has a capacity of three passengers on each flight.

MAN WHO 'MADE' BUTLER TURNS TO DRAPER

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

The man credited with "making" him deserted William M. Butler today in his fight for the Republican nomination for Senator.

E. Marshall Crane, Dalton manufacturer, and the son of the late W. Murray Crane, came out for Col. Eben S. Draper, with the statement to Draper that Butler "would not be as likely to succeed at the polls in November as you would."

The repudiation of Butler was looked upon by Republicans as a severe blow as Crane has always been a supporter of Butler and voted for him at the last election.

Confident of a smashing victory Draper will wind up his campaign tonight with two radio addresses over Station WEZ.

The broadcasts by the Hopedale candidate will be delivered at 8 p. m. and 11 p. m. They will bring to a close one of the hardest fought contests in the history of the party in recent years.

SWEEP IN CITIES

An analysis of the campaign by Wendell D. Howie, former political writer, gives Draper a majority of 35,000.

Howie, who has made a thorough check of the state, claims the important factor will be the city vote. In the towns, as well, Draper will show greater strength than his opponent expects, Howie predicts.

Among the cities that Draper will carry handily, he claims, are Newton, Lowell, Fall River, New Bedford (which is Butler's home city), Haverhill, Lawrence, North Adams, Pittsfield, Holyoke, Chicopee, Westfield, Taunton, Quincy, Fitchburg, Gardner, and Northampton. Springfield and Brockton he classes as fighting ground.

WIN IN SUFFOLK

He points out that Draper lost Suffolk county two years ago by more than 5000 votes. This year, he says, it is expected that the county will go for Draper because of the inability of several Boston leaders with William M. Butler to deliver.

On the basis of the 1926 primary fight, Howie claims, the repeated assertion that the Republican party is dry is disproved. He points out that there were three candidates in that fight, one a dry, one a "moderate" wet, and the third a "wringing" wet. The dry candidate, Arthur K. Reading, won with a vote of 98,003, but the other two polled a total vote of 135,061.

With so many drys now favoring repeal, he contends, it is impossible to make a division.

BUTLER CONFIDENT

Butler Ames, chairman of the campaign committee for Butler, on the other hand, claims his candidate will win by 50,000. Butler, he says, will win Boston by 15,000 votes. He bases his claims on "our latest reports from every part of the state" and on "a close scrutiny of the reports from the various wards in Boston."

Kenneth D. Johnson, chairman of the Milton Board of Selectmen, and Judson Hannigan, Yankee Division veteran, joined Draper in a radio broadcast yesterday over station WEZ.

Draper expressed satisfaction over the cleanness of his campaign. He refused, he said, to dignify by replies the things said about him that are "malicious and false."

Johnson said that the young men of the party have flocked to Draper.

Scanlan Comes Out for Baby Volstead Repeal

James C. Scanlan of Somerville, candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator from the first Middlesex district, declared at rallies in Somerville that he favored the repeal of the "Baby Volstead" act and that he would sponsor a bill providing state financial relief of unemployment.

Scanlan has been a member of the Somerville school committee for five years.

"State Faces Loss of Railroads"---O'Brien

THOMAS C. O'BRIEN

"The people of Massachusetts today are threatened with the loss of their fine old railroad systems just as they have steadily suffered the loss of control over their other valuable public utilities."

Thomas C. O'Brien, former district-attorney of Suffolk County, today served that warning upon the public as he completed his final drive for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

"Alien financial interests, backed by Wall Street, have acquired our gas and electric facilities," he said.

"The Pensylvania Railroad has organized a dummy holding corporation which is seeking outside the law to gain complete control of the Boston & Maine and the New Haven Railroads.

"Awake, people of Massachusetts. Unless you become alive to these dangerous invasions, New England will become the tail of the kite of Wall Street in New York and Broad Street in Philadelphi

"Every penny they take from us through increased rates, through the processes of watered stock and by financial manipulation will add just that much more to our cost of living.

"The New Haven and the Boston & Maine were once wrecked by the New York banking interests. Our shippers, our merchants, our workers and our every day travelers saw them pirated into bankruptcy once and they paid the penalties in disordered service and outrageous rates.

"Built by the brain and by the energy of the people of Massachusetts, we want these vital public utilities kept for the people of Massachusetts and operated for the best interests of Massachusetts, not for alien financial plotters whose interests lie elsewhere.

"As United States senator I could be counted upon to be in the forefront of a campaign for national legislation which would prevent these holding corporations from acquiring our railroads and public utilities by stealth. I could be counted upon also to stand with the great Americans I respect against parceling our independence as a country to alien institutions like the League of Nations and the League Court."

O'Brien's campaign was said by his supporters to hold all the promise of victory tomorrow.

MULHERN HIT ON RECORD

Charging his opponent, Senator Joseph J. Mulhern, with having conducted a campaign of vilification, Dist. Atty. William J. Foley last night called upon the voters to repudiate such tactics in tomorrow's primary.

Foley spoke over Station WEEI and at big receptions in the municipal building and Michael J. Perkins Post quarters, South Boston.

Foley, in his address, said in part:

"Mulhern has cleverly avoided any reference to the facts of his legislative record. The people of Suffolk County demand to know why it is that Foley, with eight years of service on Beacon Hill, never missed a single roll call while Mulhern has had the record of a chronic absentee.

"The people demand to know what excuse he has to offer for dodging 50 roll calls out of a total of 87 in one single year, and this supposedly courageous candidate has remained silent.

GINSBURG'S RECORD GOOD

One of the youngest members of the Legislature, Rep. Bernard Ginsburg of Dorchester, is seeking re-election on his record, with special emphasis on his fight to reduce the minimum age in the old age pension law.

Although only 32 years old, Rep. Ginsburg is a World War veteran, with a wife and baby daughter, and a record of progressive achievement in public life which other and much older men might envy.

During his first term in the Legislature Rep. Ginsburg procured the enactment of the bill extending the Commission on the Necessaries of Life.

He was also in charge of and received the quill with which the governor signed the so-called drunken driver law; drafted the so-called auctioneer's law regulating sales at fake auctions; opposed all bills tending to regulate business and industry or the powers of the Public Utilities Commission.

He has been the leading sponsor and advocate of the Thore Old Age Pension bill, receiving the endorsement of Wendell P. Thore, the father of Old Age pensions, and that of the Mass. State Federation of Labor.

He is a lawyer, author of two legal books, and a lecturer at Boston University Law School.

MURPHY SCORED BY GRATTAN

Branding Mayor John J. Murphy of Somerville as the "greatest disciple of Barnum now before the public," Alderman John M. Grattan, leader of an investigation regarding the purchase of 12 trucks by the city, denied last night in a statement that he ever attempted to borrow money from friends of Mayor Murphy as the latter charged at a hearing.

"He accuses me of attempting to borrow money from his friends. Some time ago, I did get a loan from a Somerville bank, giving as security a first mortgage on a parcel of land valued at $11,000."

Alderman Grattan had introduced an order to the board of aldermen demanding the mayor furnish certified copies of paid bills for the 12 trucks.

"I have used a good deal of your medicine and always find it gives wonderful help. I was feeling so weak and miserable that I had to lie down very often and I could hardly do my housework. I read in the paper how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped other women who were in the same condition so I said I will try it for myself. I am very much better now and I recommend this medicine."—Mrs. J. W. Albertson.

FASCIST SWEEP STUNS BERLIN

Berlin, Sept. 15 (AP)—A startled Germany today swept its littered streets free of political handbills and set to studying what to do with a Reichstag in which Adolph Hitler's Fascist party suddenly had been multiplied by nine in representation of at least 105 members.

Pre's and politicians, still stunned by these sensational and unexpected gains, which more than doubled the predictions of the Hitlerites themselves, turned their attention immediately to the problem of finding a parliamentary majority with which the government could be carried on in the face of radical opposition from both left and right.

Germany saw more than 34,000,000 of her inhabitants vote Sunday in the most interesting and surprising balloting within the five elections under the republic.

Chancellor Bruening witnessed the diminution of his Centrist movement and the ascendancy to the top, with not less than 143 delegates, of the Socialist party in the next Reichstag.

Love Swindle Blows Up

BUYABLE BRIDE NABBED

New York, Sept. 15 (US)—Ruth Miller, the little blonde with the baby smile who offered to marry any man who would pay $1000 for care of "her dear old mother," is back in New York today, having arrived with two detectives and—whoops!—a husband.

Accused of taking $1250 from two prospective husbands who fell for her sad story and her great big blue eyes, Ruth was arrested Saturday at New Bedford, Mass.

The two New York detectives who arrested her as she mingled with other guests at the wedding party of a friend, will seek to prove that she admitted her part in the marriage racket, one of the cutest ways of making money for little girls who don't like to work. Many New York men are said to have been victims.

Ruth also told them, detectives say they can prove, that Mrs. Rose Madeson, now under arrest here, was the leader in the conspiracy and that Mrs. Madeson had offered her own daughter on the matrimonial block in the same way two years ago. At that time, according to the story the detectives say Ruth told them, Mrs. Madeson collected $2000 from adoring swains.

It was not until she was arrested that it became known that Ruth already has one husband. It also was revealed that Ruth's real name is Sally E. LeBlanc. The startled wedding guests had not counted on interruption, least of all Ruth (or Sally) who sobbed loudly as she was led away. She waived extradition and agreed to come back to face grand larceny charges.

These are based on the complaints of Amiel Sidell, Japanese chauffeur, who says he gave $750 to Ruth, and of Frank Magraito, who says he handed over $500, both in the belief that they were to marry Ruth.

Beverly Man Near Death After Brawl

One man was partially scalped and is on the danger list at the Beverly Hospital, while another lost a section of his chin in what police declare was a drunken brawl at West Dane and Park sts., Beverly, last night.

Joseph Cantarnavelli of Creek st., Beverly, is near death at the hospital, with 14 stitches in his scalp. Dominec Mallardi had 12 stitches put in his chin. He was arrested on the charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Former Boston Hotel Man Dies

Worcester, Sept. 15 (AP)—Walter C. Isaacs, 56, proprietor of the New Bay State Hotel and formerly associated with hotels in Boston and Springfield, died here today.

He was a member of Springfield Lodge of Elks and the New England and American hotel men's associations.

New Detroit Mayor's Inaugural Blocked

Detroit, Sept. 15 (AP)—The inauguration of Mayor-elect Frank Murphy was delayed for at least 9 days today when Mayor Charles Bowles filed a petition for a recount in the special mayoralty election of last Tuesday.

Press Teaching Public How to Keep in Good Health

Baltimore, Sept. 15 (AP)—Surgeons and physicians from many sections of the country gathered here for advanced cancer study, were told today that there has been "a tremendous and startling" increase in the number of cures of cancer of the bone since 1913.

Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood, director of the research fund bearing his name, said that in 1913 there was not a single verified case of cancer of the bone cured by any treatment. In 1921 but 4 per cent of the less than 500 cases registered at Johns Hopkins Hospital were listed as cures, and these by amputation only.

Figures of cures for 1930, he said, vary from 11 to 61 per cent in the different types, and two methods of treatment other than amputation have been found successful.

"There is only one explanation," said Dr. Bloodgood, "and that is the people have been educated through the press of the importance of immediate X-ray examination whenever there is any symptom of pain or swelling in the region of a bone or joint."

Bandits Wound Bank Cashier; Two Caught

Atco, N. J., Sept. 15 (AP)—Two bandits held up the Atco Bank here today and shot the cashier in the jaw, inflicting a serious wound. The men fled in a motor car, but were pursued and caught by state policemen.

2 Chutes Fail Girl in First Leap, Dies

Binghamton, N. Y., Sept. 15 (AP)—Her first attempt to make a parachute jump cost the life of a 16-year-old girl here. Clara Lechner, appearing with an air circus, dropped 2000 feet to her death yesterday when neither of the two parachutes she wore opened.

Keeps 'Doom Book' of Women Who Paint Dials of Watches

West Orange, N. J., Sept. 15 (AP)—Another name has been crossed off the "doom book" kept by Dr. Harrison S. Martland, medical examiner for Essex county.

After the death of Mrs. Anna Stasi of radium poisoning today, Dr. Martland revealed that he had a list of the names of women who number luminous watch dials in the plant of the United States Radium Corp.

Mrs. Stasi's is the 16th death due to moistening radium paint brushes with the lips.

RADICALS TAKEN BY URIBURU

Buenos Aires, Sept. 15 (AP)—The police today continued to make arrests of various persons connected with the administration of the deposed president, Hipolito Irigoyen.

Among those detained are members of the so-called "klan radical," as a group of Irigoyenistas was known, and the former Irigoyenista Deputy Millon, who was taken Sunday, the day after he landed from a long trip to Europe.

Held as Wife-Beater

New York, Sept. 15 (US)—Charged with beating his wife with a heavy belt, Dimitri Biruk, 45, of 410 Watkins st., Brooklyn, was arrested yesterday.

War on Stock Frauds Wins High Praise

The Boston Evening American's recent campaign against stock swindlers and fraudulent promoters is highly commended in the pending issue of the official bulletin of the Boston Better Business Bureau.

The bulletin points out that the Boston Evening American's work in educating the public to the methods employed by stock racketeers was of the greatest value.

The article follows:

"Since July 11, 1930, the Boston Evening American has conducted a vigorous, courageous, and effective publicity campaign against stock frauds and fraudulent promoters.

"On the opening day of the campaign the Boston Evening American made an announcement, including the following.

"'In co-operation with federal, state, and county officials and the Boston Better Business Bureau, the Boston Evening American is opening today a campaign to drive the swindlers out of Boston and out of the state.'

"During the campaign, the American revealed to its public important facts concerning operations of certain stock swindlers, both in past and current operations. The American obtained facts from the Boston Better Business Bureau on many of the cases publicized.

"The bureau commends the work done by the American in its stock fraud campaign. It not only enlightened the public as to the swindlers' methods, but should act as an incentive to public officials to take action on many of the cases publicly exposed. Such publicity regarding stock swindles educates the public to the dangers of dealing with strangers promising huge profits."

EWALD CASE TO GRAND JURY

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—By order of Governor Roosevelt, an extraordinary grand jury was convened today to investigate charges that George F. Ewald paid $112,000 for his appointment as a magistrate—charges on which a county grand jury failed to indict.

Ewald, who resigned under fire, is under federal indictment for mail fraud; a city official has been forced out of office and indicted for income tax evasion in connection with the alleged appointment purchase, and a sheriff's clerk has resigned in the face of charges that he was the go-between in the reputed bench buying.

Ancient Cook Book Rich in Food

Way back in 1894, a then very famous doctor collaborated with a pioneer domestic science worker in getting out a combination cook book and family medical adviser, which in all the dignity of its time-yellowed pages has recently come into my possession. So, if there are any old-time dishes for which you would like the recipe, from Dolly Madison Cake to Saddle of Venison, call on me and I'm sure I'll find it between the covers of this valuable new treasure of mine.

Martha Lee

Today I'm taking from it four timely preserving recipes.

SWEET CHOW-CHOW

1 gallon cabbage
2 qts. green tomatoes
1 pt. onions
½ cup green peppers.

Chop all fine and add 1½ lbs. of sugar, 1 tbsp. mustard, 1 tbsp. ginger, 2 tbsps. cloves, 2 tbsps. salt, 3 tbsps. cinnamon or 3 or 4 sticks cinnamon. Put all in 3 qts. vinegar and boil until cabbage is tender.

TOMATO PRESERVES

Cut 6 lemons in slices, and boil until tender in 2 pints of water; then skim out, and put in 10 lbs. of sugar, and let it boil until the sugar is all dissolved; then put in 10 lbs. of peeled and sliced tomatoes, and boil for ¾ hour; put back the lemon, and boil for 10 to 15 minutes longer. Put in jars, and cover closely. Partly ripe tomatoes are better than ripe ones for these preserves. A little ginger root boiled with the lemons improves the flavor.

PICKLED APPLES

Peel, quarter and core nice sweet apples until you have 5 lbs.; put them in a stewpan, cover with water and cook until tender; lift out carefully with a skimmer and put on an earthen dish. Make a syrup of 3 lbs. of sugar and 1 pt. of vinegar, add some stick cinnamon and a few cloves. Boil until clear, then put in apples and cook slowly for 20 or 30 minutes. Put in glass cans.

TOMATO CHUTNEY

Cut up and peel 12 large tomatoes, 6 onions chopped fine, 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup sugar, handful of raisins, chopped fine, salt to taste, ½ tsp. of cayenne, ½ tsp. white pepper. Boil 1½ hours, bottle or put in stone jar.

I'll have more of these time-tested recipes for you in this column in the near future. Meanwhile, don't be bashful with special requests for old-time dishes.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

THREE-LAYER FUDGE.

First layer:
2 cups granulated sugar.
1 tbsp. butter.
¾ cup milk.

Put sugar and milk in saucepan, add two squares of unsweetened chocolate and cook to soft ball stage. Add butter, remove from fire, beat steadily. When it begins to thicken beat in two tbsp marshmallow whip. When thick and creamy pour into buttered pan 10 inches square.

Second layer:
Cook same amount of sugar and milk together, omitting chocolate, proceed as directed above. Instead of adding marshmallow stir in 1 can cocoanut and 1 tsp. vanilla. Pour this on top of the first layer and spread evenly.

Third layer:
Follow directions for first layer, but instead of marshmallow add 1 cup mixed of finely chopped dates, figs and nut meats.

Clothing Care Made Easy

Delicate garments deserve the best of treatment, and regular cleansing is surely a small price to pay for the faithful service and good wear well-treated clothes give us. A recent discovery of mine is a firm of dry cleaners which does all kinds of garment cleansing, from your opulent and most expensive things to your most precious evening gown or hubby's prized Tuxedo.

A popular innovation is the "home-press" service. This means that you can have your simpler coats, scarfs and dresses cleaned carefully and nicely, and then sent home to you for the pressing, and many a wife is well acquainted with the art of pressing. A man's three-piece suit can be cleaned and sent home to you for pressing for 85 cents.

Or you can use the "mid-way" service, which cleans and presses and returns to you your less expensive garments on which general wear and tear would not justify the "quality de luxe" service.

In the "mid-way" service, garments which are not too badly stained find a haven of restoration. The same fine treatment, mind you, that characterizes all the work this excellent firm turns out, and whose name is a guarantee for the best work of its kind.

Then the "quality de luxe" service for the aforementioned delicate evening gowns and wraps and the resplendent full dress suit. This "quality de luxe" is guaranteed to be the finest and safest handcleansing method known. And best of all is the collection and delivery service into 40 Boston suburbs, with main stores in Allston, Boston, Brookline and West Newton. A line to Martha Lee will bring you the name of the call service nearest you.

Ketchup for Zest

All you congenial spirits, who, with me, love to indulge in an orgy of baked beans 'n' brown bread, good old-fashioned corn beef hash and savory codfish cakes ever and anon, gather closer and I'll tell you how you can add just 100 per cent to your enjoyment of these favorite dishes by a dash of spicy tomato ketchup, the name of which I'll gladly send you, if you're not already familiar with it.

There comes a time once in so often when a longing for the plain dishes of our fathers and mothers seems to become so demanding that we must rush forth and buy the makings for hash, fish cakes, etc. Then, when they are temptingly golden brown, all ready to go the way of good foods, dash over a bit of this thick, rich, red goodness and taste a flavor fit for the gods. Even plainest foods, such as cold meat cuts or hashed brown potatoes take on a new and more delightful flavor for being combined with this delicious ketchup. Made of fine fresh tomatoes, purest spices and highest grade vinegar, this ketchup could ot be more delicious if made in your own kitchen. If you haven't guessed the name, drop me a line and I'll gladly reveal it.

New Zest for Old Dishes

I think that most of us realize that enjoying the taste of food helps us to digest it easier, so getting a richer, more appetizing flavor in the daily dishes becomes an important problem. Taking a leaf or two out of the books of the great French chefs of the big hotels where deftly seasoned dishes are insisted on, we find that golden drops of mustard are used in preparing appetizing vegetables and delicious meats. A big advantage of this method of seasoning is that it is so very simple. The kind of prepared mustard we use in the Martha Lee Cooking School is carefully blended in just the right proportion for seasoning, and no doubt you have used it on your own tables for meats and sandwiches.

This prepared mustard is a delicate mixture of the world's choicest mustard seeds, blended with delicious spices. It is all mixed, ready to use. The golden liquid spreads through every atom of food, giving zest and taste to every bite.

Chili Sauce Is Prize Winner

Easy to make and mighty easy to take is this Chili Sauce sent in by Mrs. A. D. Quint of 4 Cotton st., Roslindale, Mass. And while maybe it wouldn't quite "curl hair on bald heads," still it is practically guaranteed to sooth the ravaging husband and put him in a frame of mind when you could mention that promised fur coat.

CHILI SAUCE

24 ripe tomatoes
8 medium onions
6 hot red peppers
1 pint Heinz vinegar
1½ c. Domino sugar
1 tsp. Worcester salt

1 tbsp Slades whole spices, cardamon seed and celery seeds

Scald the tomatoes, pare and cut placing in a large cooking kettle. Put the onions and peppers through the meat grinder. Boil the entire mixture slowly about three-quarters of an hour; then put in sterilized jars and seal.

PEACH FOLLY

2 tbsp. melted butter.
2 cups toasted bread crumbs.
6 peaches, pared and sliced (large).
1 tbsp. grated orange rind.
1 cup light brown sugar.

Arrange alternate layers of peaches and crumbs in buttered baking dish. Sprinkle each layer with fruit and juice, and place in moderate oven for three-quarters of an hour. Uncover during last 15 minutes. Serve with hard sauce, made by creaming together one-third cup of butter, one cup of confectioners' sugar and one teaspoon of vanilla.

ECONOMY SALAD

1 large can tuna fish.
1 bunch celery.
1 cup cheese.
Salt and pepper.
Mayonnaise to moisten.

Mix lightly together, serve with crisp lettuce, tomatoes and potato chips. Mighty good for a bridge luncheon, all on one plate

Get Your Daily Bran Quota With These Muffins

A delicious way to get your daily quota of bran, which doctors say we all should eat more of, is to make them into these easy to make and eat all-bran muffins. Two or three of these, fruit and your favorite cereal and coffee, and you have a delightful, healthful, well-balanced breakfast, good for the year 'round.

ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

1 Cup all-bran
1 Cup flour
½ Tsp. soda
½ Tsp. salt
2 Tbsp. shortening
1 Tsp. Baking powder
¼ Cup sugar
1 Egg
1 Cup sour milk

Cream shortening and sugar together, add the egg. Mix and sift the flour, soda, salt and baking powder. To the creamed mixture add the all-bran, then the milk, alternately with the sifted dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tins and bake in a moderate oven (370 deg. F.) for 20 minutes. This recipe makes 12 muffins. If sweet milk is used instead of sour milk, omit the ½ tsp. of soda and use 3 tsp. of baking powder. Raisins or dates may be added to the muffins if desired.

Beauty Bargains

You'll get $2.75 worth of beauty for $1.50 at Ella Whitney's—that's her special for the week! You may choose your own pet treatments from the following: Shampoo, manicel, water or finger wave, facial, eyebrow arching, haircut, manicure—you'll get all three for $1.50 instead of the regular price of $2.75! Or you may choose any two for $1. Miss Whitney and her assistant have great success with Inecto Notox dyeing—coloring grey or faded hair so naturally that it defies detection. She gives a beautiful Bonat permanent wave for only $3, which leaves your hair in soft, flattering ripples ending in ringlets! I had a glance at her appointment book—and I advise you to call early—Hubbard 1439. Ella Whitney, 703 Dexter Bldg., 453 Washington St.

Fashion Says Frocks With Belts Are Smart!

And how very swanky your new long line frock will look when belted with smart suede, patent leather or metal! You'll surely want one of these belts—for you know it's the little touch that does add so much to the appearance of your frock. Filene's Belt Shop has their collection ready. You'll find that the belts this season are in themselves very simple—the variations being in the fastenings—they're really quite simple in design but very subtle in detail—and so smart in effect! One of the most popular belts is the deep, rich black or brown suede in the three-quarter width—they cost but 50c and $1! You'll like the braided suede in plain or three-tone colors—they're priced at only $1. The patent leather belts in black, brown and navy are very good-looking—and most attractive on sport clothes. There's a real Antelope belt for $1—And Alligator belts to match your shoes and bag. These are extremely smart! Oh! Yes, I mustn't forget the metal belts—one of these glittering snake belts can entirely change the appearance of your last season's frocks—or add an extremely fashionable touch to your new frocks. Fashion makes the belt important, and these belts at Filene's will make your frock acquaintance a delightful one. Belts in fascinating shades—to accompany your fall costumes, delightful leathers—alluring metals—and combinations of leather and metal. Everything new and smart in belts can be found in Filene's Belt Shop, street floor.

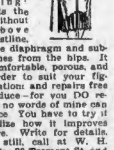
Reducing—

hips and diaphragm is the mission of the Phelps foundation garment. And now that the shop has caught up with its orders and increased the workroom capacity — it's ready to help you to restore your vanished waistline — without the doubtful aid of disagreeable dieting! It supports the abdomen without "bulge" above the waistline, reduces the diaphragm and subtracts inches from the hips. It is cool, comfortable, porous, and made-to-order to suit your figure. Alterations and repairs free as you reduce—for you DO reduce! But no words of mine can do it justice. You have to try it on to realize how it improves your figure. Write for details, or better still, call at W. H. Phelps & Co., 28 Tremont St. and see for yourself. Hub. 2490.



If I Had a Fairy

Godmother to grant me three wishes—they would be for three of the smart new fall dresses at Evelyn's! They've got the very tang of autumn in them — gorgeous fall shades — You'll adore them! Each dress was personally selected by Evelyn — they're all in the new and ravishing materials — canton crepes, satins, silk crepes, travel tweeds, wool crepes and the very new wool lace frocks. All so feminine and individual!—And considering all the ear marks (and none of the price marks) of frightfully expensive dresses. Prices run $6.95 to $12.95 and up. In the $6.95 group there are some wonderful lace gowns and 3 piece knitted suits! Evelyn has them all styles—sizes and prices to suit everyone. Evelyn's Dress Shop, 8 Winter St., 3rd floor.

The Beautiful Color

that the years have robbed from your hair can easily be restored with Ante J. MacHale's wonderful Hair Color Restorer! It does not dye — it does not tint — it's a restorer that gets down to the color cells and recreates the color from the roots out — bringing back to your hair its youthful color and lustre. Her Res-A-Viv, too, is a youth restorer—for the skin! It feeds those wasting tissues so that wrinkles cannot form. After Res-A-Viv there's Anne MacHale's Special Astringent which gives firmness and youth to the contour of the face —It tightens pouchy muscles and closes enlarged pores. All these youth - giving Anne MacHale's preparations are but $1 each. They're sold at all the S. S. Pierce stores.

This Fall

your coiffure must be as new as your fall clothes! Show your curls in the mandalo to the woman who would be smartly hatted. The new turban demands half-peeping out from the sides — and curls are most essential. At Frederic Permanent at 55 or $8 will give you your lasting ringlets—If the hair is bleached or dyed $10. Today's beauty calls for bright, lustrous hair also—and Miss Parker, who specializes in hair tintings and bleaching, will correct any ruined hair. DAILY ANTIQUE

No. 196

An American highboy of curly maple may be seen in the gallery of maple furniture at the Museum of Fine Arts. The complete lack of carving enhances the simple beauty of this antique piece of furniture whose plain mouldings and gracefully turned legs are its only embellishments. The sun-ray motif on the bottom drawer and the original brass handles lend a decorative air to the otherwise plain surface. The detachable upper section, which consists of five drawers is of slightly narrower dimensions than the lower stand on which it rests. Dutch feet are topped by the simplicity of the Colonial times, set wide apart for its grace and beauty.

The high-boy or chest-on-chest as it is more commonly called is an outgrowth of the chest of drawers and the court cupboard which have already been shown in this column. The most attractive feature about this piece is the quality of wood, unpretentious yet commanding much dignity.

Clubwomen to Parade Wednesday

By NANCY BREWSTER

Greater Boston clubwomen are to participate in "Boston Day" celebration on Wednesday. Many clubs affiliated with the State Federation are to parade in groups. Those clubwomen unable to parade, will, however, be on hand to lend color and cheer to the representation that day.

Boston clubs owning houses have decorated the properties fittingly and in addition sent out special invitations to out-of-town visitors to be their guests.

All this week the Women's City Club is playing hostess to Tercentenary guests, having extended to the out-of-towners the cordial request to have luncheon or tea in the club garden and to inspect the clubhouse at 40 Beacon st. under the personal guidance of members.

Mrs. William J. McDonald, sixth district director, of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, has gone to New York to be one of two women to escort back to Boston, Madam Schumann-Heink who is to sing at the "Boston Day" celebration.

The Catholic Daughters of America are to be represented by an official delegation composed of members throughout the state. State officers headed by the regent, Miss Marianne J. Collins, of Revere, are to parade.

The group will also include Miss Lillian C. Clark, state vice-regent; Mrs. John V. Ballard, Milton, state secretary; Mrs. James H. Murray, state treasurer; Mrs. Anna Murphy, North Adams, state monitor, and many others from the several courts of Massachusetts.

District deputies have been assigned to the courts to have charge of the arrangements, and of this committee Mrs. Daniel F. Danehy of Dorchester is the chairman. Others are Mrs. May E. Bamberg, Mrs. Gertrude Bailey, Mrs. Josephine Donnelly, Mrs. Helen Doherty, Mrs. Mrs. Eileen Linehan, Mrs. Elizabeth Hennessey, Mrs. Alice McNamara, Mrs. Beatrice Phelps, Mrs. Winifred Scanlan, Mrs. Mary Crane, Mrs. Cecelia Curry, Mrs. Margaret Stack, Frances Ahern, Mae Cross, Margaret Gray, Lillian Hanrahan, Eleanor Million, Marguerite Loftus, Kathryn Holden, B. Magrath, Mae Morris, Alice Murray and Anna Moran.

Under the direction of Mrs. Mary Cahill the vested choir will also attend, Miss Clark reports.

Legion Women Will Induct Officers at Dorchester Temple

There is to be a public installation of the officers of the All Dorchester Post, American Legion Auxiliary, tomorrow night in the Eastern Star Temple, Dorchester, at which Mrs. May E. Bamberg, will preside.

Mrs. Bamberg, who is the new president for the year, served last season as sergeant-at-arms and was twice vice-president. She is a member of the Suffolk County Cadets, who are to compete with the best drill teams of the country when the national convention of the American Legion Auxiliary is held Oct. 6.

Those women elected to official positions in the post are: Mrs. Rebecca Warren, vice-president; Mrs. Catherine Kelly, junior vice-president; Miss Margaret Wells, secretary; Miss Madeline Hennessey, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Kral, historian; Mrs. Nellie Regale, chaplain; Mrs. Martha O'Hagen, Mrs. John Calbag, Mrs. Mary Murray, Mrs. Maria Barry, Mrs. Agnes Hennessey, Mrs. Josephine O'Donnell and Mrs. Jessie Nixon, executive committee.

Prepare for Annual Bridge of Brookline Clubwomen Nov. 7

Although a bit early, Brookline clubwomen under the direction of Mrs. John A. Jennings, former vice-president of the Brookline Woman's Club, are engaged in preparing for their annual bridge party and entertainment which is to be held at the Copley-Plaza November 7.

Mrs. Walter Barton Leach, former director of the fourth district of the State Federation, will assist Mrs. Jennings with the fashion show to special part of the program. The mode of styles is always one of the interesting features of the club's party.

The club starts the season October 20, holding the meeting at the regular place, Whitney Hall.

New Way To Improve Skin

A wonderful discovery is the new French process which gives MELLO-GLOW Face Powder its unparalleled smoothness and makes it stay on longer. The purest powder made—its color is tested. Never gives a pasty or flaky look! Will not smart the skin or enlarge the pores. Gives a youthful bloom. Remember the name—MELLO-GLO.

New Elegance in Hat Treatment This Fall

By ANN ARDEN

MODELS FROM E. T. SLATTERY COMPANY

PARIS SEEMS TO FEEL extravagant about her hats this fall. In tune with the increasing elegance of clothes, millinery follows suit. Fabrics of richness and pliability are adorned with more elaborate trimmings. All the houses are showing lots of velvet. Felt and soleil are being used in weights so fine that it gives them an unusual richness.

By now you know that all hats definitely show the brow, some in an extreme manner, others more conservatively but none the less browishly. Where brims are used, crowns are shallow. Draping is an important theme, especially so in the beret-turban category. There is a new feeling for trimming. Feathers, ribbons and other fancies are more in evidence than they have been since the war.

Velvet is going to be a very popular fabric this fall, and no material is more becoming nor adaptable. Last year velvet hats were made like berets or turbans, and tied in place. This year they are more formal, and have greater variety.

OF THE TWO HATS pictured, the Beret-tam has a wool-crochet brow band, and black velvet draped to side points, and low back line—in fact its soft folds can be adjusted to your own desire.

The more formal hat from Marie Alphonsine is of black velvet and has its softly turned-up brim shirred to sharp point at center front, flaring at the sides, and giving long back line, where it is accented by bow-knot of filigree silver metal.

It will be quite possible for even the talented to go astray this fall in the accessory situation. There are so many eligibles! This season the smart will be mixing costume complements with charming success. Such alliances as black satin bag with velvet hat, for instance, will rate in fashion.

SOUNDS PARADOXICAL, but it's true—the smartest dress fabrics feature dull-finish materials—and it's only logical that accessories, those "little, things that make or break a costume," should follow the leader and depend on their dullness for chic.

Bags—shoes—gloves—and hose—all fall in line and choose dull mediums for their expression. It is still a prestige idea, fast gaining in importance—but the smart woman who buys, for instance, a canton crepe dress (and what woman won't own one this fall?) will want dull accessories to give her tout ensemble a chic appearance.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs and fashions generally. Address Boston Evening American or Boston Sunday Advertiser or Station WHDH.

ARGENTINA NOW AWAKE, SAYS URIBURU

"Argentina has awakened from her sleep and will now come to order and fulfill her lofty ideals."

Thus spoke Gen. Jose Evaristo Uriburu, new president of the Argentine Republic, in a message from the provisional government to the American people, which he presented last night from the presidential palace in Buenos Aires, and which was transmitted to this country on the radio through facilities of the National Broadcasting Company. The broadcast was arranged by Hearst Newspaper Radio Service. Gen. Uriburu spoke over the telephone circuit since no Argentine radio station is powerful enough to reach New York.

Gen. Uriburu spoke in Spanish and his message was translated into English by Jose Evariste, his cousin.

"The government, the army and the navy enjoy the confidence of the people, and it is by the people's will that we have assumed the rule of the government. There is now a centralization of support. The provisional government in its early wish to return to normalcy, pledges to elect a new constitutional administration.

Veteran Traction Worker Kills Self

Taunton, Sept. 15 (AP)—The body of James A. Curran, 52, an employe of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway for 29 years, was found behind the car barn here today. Death was due to a bullet wound in the head. A pistol was found beside the body.

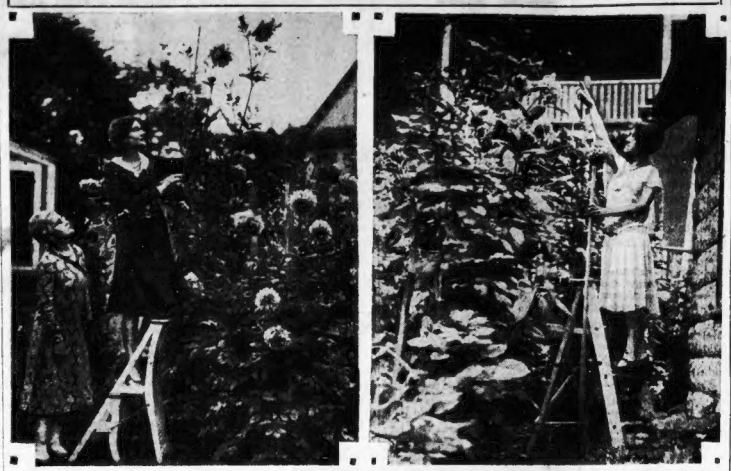
Falls to His Death After Chute Lands

Steubenville, O., Sept. 15 (AP)—Although his parachute brought him safely to earth, Earl Miller, 26, of Canton, O., was fatally injured when he fell while climbing from a pile of rocks on which he landed. Miller went up to make an exhibition jump.

Tahiti Loss Laid to Perils of Sea

Wellington, New Zealand, Sept. 3 (AP)—A court of inquiry into sinking of the liner Tahiti recently off the Cook Islands today found that her loss was due to the perils of the sea, which no reasonable human care or foresight could have avoided.

Tallest Dahlia Contest Started by Somebody



HERE WE HAVE TWO contestants that claim their dahlia plants are well over nine feet. Mrs. Joseph P. Wyman and Mrs. John P. Camera of Arlington, are looking at their champion. The other tallest dahlia claimant is Mrs. T. B. Wheeler, of Arlington. Looks like a keen battle will ensue until this unofficial title is awarded. (Staff photos.)

OPEN PROBE OF R. I. POLICE

Central Falls, R. I.—Atty.-Gen. Benjamin M. McLyman today began the presentation of evidence of alleged police graft in this city to the grand jury meeting for the first time in the new $4,000,000 courthouse at Providence.

The charges come as the end of a long series of accusations of illegal practices by Chief of Police McCarthy and other officers of the Central Falls force, by Mayor J. Abelard Bourgy who has claimed that gambling houses and places where liquor is sold are in the city.

Chief McCarthy, who has held his present position for more than 25 years, asserts that the whole matter is in the line of a political frameup. Atty.-Gen. McLyman is said to have promised the presentation of a score of affidavits of persons who claim to have paid for police protection.

Genoa Aristocrats and Dock Workers Honor Loved Saint

Genoa, Italy, Sept. 15 (AP)—The famous Confraternity of the Cavanna, a guild of longshoremen who are under vows never to swear or drink to excess, paraded today clad in magnificent handembroidered coats of gold and silver and violet colored velvet woven on handlooms in the 12th century. The celebration was in honor of their patron, St. Catherine of Genoa, a contemporary of Columbus.

Bearing ancient church lanterns of wrought gold aloft on tall cereal colored standards, these dockers led the procession in commemoration of the saintly and noble lady, who was a member of the noted Fieschi family.

Behind the longshoremen, bearing lighted tapers, came members of the Genoese aristocracy, dressed in their best and displaying all their jewels. Such well-known families as the Dorias, the Spinolas and the Cattaneos were represented. Inside the church of St. Catherine, where the procession ended, Marchese Cattaneo, a descendant of the Fieschi, knelt by the glass casket in which reposes the body of the holy woman who died in 1510.

Engineer Killed, but Train Rolls on

Canon City, Col., Sept. 15 (AP)—A speeding freight train was pilotless for nearly five miles near here last night after the engineer, C. R. Casenhisen, fell from the locomotive cab and was killed, John Craig, fireman, noticing the absence of the engineer, brought the train into Florence.

Kurds Wiped Out in Mount Ararat Region

Angora, Turkey, Sept. 15 (AP)—Turkish troops today were reported to have wound up a successful campaign against Kurdish rebels in the Mount Ararat district. All rebels and many tribal leaders were wiped out without mercy, the army reports asserted.

Missing 85 Days

TALL DAHLIAS REPORTED

"Why are the wild ferns growing taller to you?" as Lawrence Tibbett would sing it.

Every day the dahlias grow taller in this section, according to letters coming into the office of the Boston Evening American.

The contest started when Mrs. Alice Barclay of Santa Cruz, Cal., claimed a world altitude with a height of seven feet. Paul Piein of Yonkers, N. Y., advanced a claim of nine feet, and then Massachusetts communities began to be heard from.

Mrs. John T. Morrison of 908 Washington st., Norwood, wrote she had a dahlia two or three inches over nine feet in her garden. Then came Mrs. T. B. Wheeler of 15 Richardson ave., Arlington, who demonstrati that a dahlia in her garden was also well over nine feet.

Next was Mrs. Joseph P. Wyman of 347 Massachusetts ave., Arlington, with a dahlia which stretches itself well into the ether above the nine foot mark, and probably there will be more to come.

SLAYS SISTER TO CURE BROKEN HEART

Los Angeles, Sept. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Ruth B. Weimer was under arrest today for the slaying of her sister, Mrs. Mabel Agnes Steele, 41, whom she admitted shooting, police said, to "cure her of a broken heart."

Grieving over the kidnaping of her two children, Mrs. Steele attempted suicide several times, and was placed in a psychopathic ward, police said. Apparently recovered, she returned to weeping bitterly for her children.

A niece of Mrs. Weimer said her aunt told Mrs. Steele:

"If you don't stop crying I'll shoot you."

"I want to die. Please do," the niece quoted Mrs. Steele as replying.

Jumps Into Charles, but Police Save Him

Hurricane Casualty List Put at 8000

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, Sept. 15 (AP)—The casualties from the hurricane which wrecked Santo Domingo a week and a half ago were placed today at 2000 dead and 6000 injured by Commander L. W. Johnson of the United States Navy, chairman of the committee on Red Cross and medical relief.

Hold Peabody Man For Theft of $1120

Worcester, Sept. 15—James J. O'Meara, 29, of Peabody, was arrested today for larceny from Mrs. Bridget Fitzgerald, lodging house landlady, at 52 Eastern ave., this city. According to police, O'Meara obtained Mrs. Fitzgerald's bank book, drew $1120 on a forged order, and bought an automobile.

The statement of District Attorney Joseph B. Ely, in which he threw aside to bolt the democratic party unless the candidates on the state ticket joined with him in repudiating the planks in the democratic platform regarding the league of nations and the Boston police strike, created consternation in the ranks of the democratic party yesterday. It was a body blow, so staggering in its effect that few of the party's leaders in the different parts of the state could recover from the daze sufficiently to know where they stood.

FOR GOVERNOR

Press Editorials

Boston Globe, Sept. 10, 1930

JOHN F.

A BOSTON newsboy was once defrauded of $4.50, his day's earnings, by a particularly mean thief. The boy stood on his accustomed corner, trying to keep back the tears, when a pink-cheeked gentleman of benevolent aspect appeared before him, asked a few kindly questions and departed, leaving behind him a five-dollar bill.

The boy learned, later that his benefactor was John F. Fitzgerald, who had heard his story from bystanders. And it is because the name of John F. Fitzgerald has become associated, in the minds of his fellow-citizens, with similar good works and with genial good nature, that Bostonians of all political affiliations extend to him their sincerest sympathy in his present enforced retirement from the political contest.

In his many years of service as Mayor of Boston, Congressman and State Senator, Mr. Fitzgerald has endeared himself to countless thousands by the charm of his manner and by the human gusto with which he has always been accustomed to break into song. When he has sought office unsuccessfully he has known how to lose gracefully. In victory or defeat, he has always been a cheerful campaigner, and probably no Bostonian has more warm friends. And in office or out, he has always held before him a vision of the great city which Boston ought to be.

For these reasons the people of the Commonwealth hope that his present withdrawal from political affairs is only temporary, and that he may emerge triumphant from his present battle to support his party many times more. Political gatherings and campaigns in Boston lose much of their flavor lacking the presence of John F.

Boston Post, Sept. 10, 1930

THE DEMOCRATIC PUZZLE

Genuine public sympathy is extended John F. Fitzgerald, who has been forced, owing to ill health, to withdraw, as far as is legally possible, from the contest for the Democratic nomination for Governor. According to the best opinion obtainable from unprejudiced sources he would, in all probability, have won the nomination by a substantial margin and would have had the honor of leading his party this year when the prospects for Democratic success are extremely bright.

Boston Traveler, Sept. 10, 1930

EVERYBODY'S BEST WISHES

John F. Fitzgerald is more than a mere former Mayor. He is John F. Fitzgerald, emphatically one of the interesting features that made Boston Boston.

Like everybody else, we are ever so sorry to learn that he is ill. We hope he is just tired and that relaxing a bit will put him quickly on his feet. A bundle of energy, Johnny Fitz, all his life, perennially youthful. It is going to be a difficult job keeping him in bed.

We want him to know that we all urge him to be sure and follow the doctor's orders. We want him to be well and back smiling at us again and telling us, as ever, what a great place Boston is. You know, John, it wouldn't be the same place without you. Be a good patient, now, and let politics go hang.

Restore the stricken warrior with 500,000 Democratic votes on Primary Day (Tomorrow).

A sweeping victory will renew h is cheer, while medicine fails. Let's hear "Sweet Adeline" again.

Bring back that smile and energy which he has spent on his party. Repay the debt to a loyal leader now in his hour of suffering. Every vote for Fitzgerald is a vote for the Democratic Party and its traditions.

Vote for Fitzgerald and win the State for the Democratic Party.

Do not waste your vote. This election is too important. A vote for John F. Fitzgerald does not create a precedent. In an industrial crisis like the present it is our duty to select the best man.

In 1926, Harry Dooley, a bus announcer, announced his withdrawal as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor in favor of his, at that time, opponent, the same Mr. Ely who is now a candidate for Governor, yet despite his withdrawal and the fact that Dooley did not expend a single dollar, he was nominated over Ely.

The Democratic State Committee met and substituted Mayor Talbot of Fall River and there was no protest that it constituted a violation of the Primary Act.

The duty of the hour is not the personal aggrandizement of Ely or Cummings, the duty is to nominate a man that will develop a program of work and wages, and end for all time industrial depression.

Tune in Tonight WNAC—Mayor Curley Will Speak 10:40 to 10:50 and 11:50 to 12:00

Rally Today, Pemberton Square, 1 P. M.

The people look to the Democratic Party to provide relief and recognizing that it is only possible through the nomination of John F. Fitzgerald, and later substitution of the ablest and most capable man in the entire State, they can be relied upon to vote on Primary Day for John F. Fitzgerald.

They recognize that while Mr. Fitzgerald's two opponents may be honest and well intentioned, they are men of limited capacity backed by a motely horde of selfish self-seekers and in them they find no single ray of hope.

Fortunately, there is an avenue of hope for those heavily laden who, walking in the shadow, view with fear the approaching winter.

Their fears can be allayed; their hopes realized, and our duty to party and to people fulfilled if in the exercise of our God-given franchise we will eliminate personal selfishness and, thinking only in terms of service,

300 YEARS OLD, BUT STILL IN THE RING!

"Come 'round, any old time, make yourself to home,
Hang your hat on the mantel shelf,
Open the cupboard and help ourself,
I don't care if you're blue, broke and all alone,
Rich or poor, just knock on the door and make yourself to home."

Evenin' folks evenin'. Gosh, it's good to see you all. All you million visitors coming in every hour at the North and South stations, stepping ashore from the boats, just like our forefathers did from off the Mayflower, rolling in by automobiles, flocks and flocks of them, honk-honking like gray Canadian geese over the brown ribbons of roads that wind over our beloved New England hills. Welcome to Our City, all you visitors here for the Ter. Tercen—how, in heck, do you spell it anyway?—Tercentenary. Not just one welcome, folks, but the warm, heartfelt Gaelic greeting given at the door of the humble Irish cottage in which the fathers and mothers of so many of Boston's citizens were born and lived and died, "Ceade Mille Failthe"—"a hundred thousand welcomes."

"Ceade mille failthe." A thousand welcomes.
'Tis good to hear it once more!
Ah, mother machree, it just brings me
Back the dear, dead days of yore.
When you used to crown by the peat fire,
With m curled up at your knee—
Och, home was a castle o' dreams then,
Life, a sail on a fairy sea.

Welcome, a thousand welcomes to you all. Come 'round any old time and make yourself to home. You'll find we have the best hotels, best restaurants in this wide, wide world. Have a good time. Enjoy yourself. Entertainment? We have plenty of theaters and a variety of plays. Sports—oh, there's where Boston shines!

George Underwood.

INTRODUCING OURSELF

Boston is the greatest sporting city in this wide, wide world. Nowhere will you find as many ball fields, running tracks, playgrounds, swimming "holes," tennis courts, golf courses, stadiums, arenas.

Have you seen our great Boston Garden? Nowhere is there staged quite so many fights, and football games, school, college, professional, as there is right here in "Boston, City of Culture and Cod, where the Cabots speak only to Lowells and the Lowells speak only to"—oh, you know it.

That's the trouble, folks, some of you visitors have got us wrong, Mawruss, all wrong. You are coming here with a wrong impression. You think we are a lot of motheaten, crusty old fogies, all wrapped up in our "culture," living in our glorious past, so darned proud of our heritage that we consider it undignified to loosen up and make Whoopee. You've got us wrong, Steve! Wait and see. Before you leave we'll betcha you'll own up to having had the best time in your life.

Sport? Why you could write the history of sport in America around Boston. Boston is the First City in the Sporting World—ever, though, just now, we are last in the American League.

But how about our Bruins? Doesn't Boston boast the hockey champions of the U. S. A.? When we're not leading in baseball we are in hockey.

Yes, just now we are last in the American League. But wait till next year, folks! Wait till next year! We'll get back to first place. It's a habit.

In our archives is the first mention of playing ball made in America. A group of Puritans objected to working on Christmas, "because it hurt their conscience." Governor Bradford excused them. Later he found them "playing ball." That hurt Governor Bradford's conscience. He chased them back to work.

FEW BOSTON "FIRSTS"

Boston had the first great professional baseball team.

It has had many great teams since. Since when has there been an infield which could compare with Tenney, Long, Lowe and Collins? Or an outfield measuring up with Lewis, Speaker and Hooper? Was there anything that ever equalled the pennant dash of the Braves of 1914? "Hopeless tailenders" on July 4. National League winner and World's Series victor ten weeks later?

A Boston team made the first baseball invasion of England. Only three men on that old Boston team, Harry and George Wright, and Dick McBride, ever had played cricket before, but in conjunction with the baseball games the Bostonians met ALL of the leading cricket teams of England at cricket and won EVERY game.

The first catcher's mask was used by a Bostonian. Fred W. Thayer of the Harvard team of '77 invented it, getting the idea from a fencing mask. He had it made for James Tyng. The Harvard catcher used it for the first time in a game on Fast Day, April, 1877, in a game against the Live Oaks at Lynn.

The first baseball glove was used by Charles C. Waite in Boston in 1875.

Baseball is America's national game. We mentioned baseball first, for that reason. How about Boston's record in other sports?

Boxing? Didn't Boston have the first, and maybe the greatest, heavyweight champion, John L. Sullivan? Look at the other champion boxers who were born or made their home in Boston. Jake Kilrain, Sam Langford, Joe Calcott, George Dixon, Matty Baldwin, Honey Mellody, the Twin Sullivans, the Glover brothers, Dave and Spike Sullivan, George Godfrey, Johnny Wilson, Jimmy Welsh, Ike Weir, Jack Sharkey—oh, you could fill a record book with the names of Boston fighters.

And Boston has had continuous boxing for more than half a century. When the bars were lowered on boxing in other places, the fighting men always could get a mill here. So the Bostonians are a lot of Puritanical old fogies, eh?

TRACK AND FIELD

Athletics? The first big international meet, England vs. America, was staged in 1895. More than half of the men who helped Uncle Sam win first place in all 12 events and take second place in most of them as well, hailed from Boston or vicinity.

The first modern Olympic Games were staged in Athens, Greece, in 1896. Wasn't it natural that the majority of winners should come from the "Athens of America"? You said it. The American Olympic Team of 1896 was composed almost exclusively of Boston A. A. and Harvard athletes.

The first professional in America to do 9 3-5 seconds for a hundred was Piper Donovan. Yep, a Bostonian. Piper hailed from just outside of Boston, anyway. The first amateur to do 9 1-5 was another Bostonian, Arthur Duffey, a hose corking column you can still read in a local paper. Arthur Duffey was about as great a trotter as ever tore up the cinders. Donovan and Duffey are only a few of the flock of world's record wreckers who hailed from Boston.

A GROUP OF GREATS who'll participate in the athletic program being held in conjunction with Boston's Tercentenary Week. Jimmy Braddock meets Phil Mercurio in a Boston Garden fight on Friday night. Mary Carew, popular Medford girl and Ray Conger, Illinois A. C. track star, compete in the track festivities at Franklin Field on Thursday. Freddy Maguire, second-baseman of the Braves, who got his start on Roxbury sandlots, returns with the Tribe to play an all-star park department team at Franklin Field on Thursday.

SPORTS GALORE FOR BOSTON'S 300TH ANNIVERSARY

DEFEAT PUTS CHAMPS 11-2 GAMES BACK

Philadelphia, Sept. 16—Chicago's champion Cubs lost the first game of their double-header with the Lowly Phillies here this afternoon by a score of 12 to 11.

The defeat put the Windy City entry one and a half games back of the league-leading Brooklyn Robins in the great National League pennant struggle.

FIRST INNING

Cubs—Both English and Heathcote fanned. Hornsby flied to Klein. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

Cubs—Wilson fouled to Hurst. So did Cuyler. Kelly fanned. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Cubs—Hartnett singled to right. Bell walked. Blake sacrificed, Benge to Hurst. English popped to Thevenow. So did Heathcote. NO RUNS.

Phils—Hornsby tossed out Brickell, Thompson singled. On the hit and run play Friberg singled to left, putting Thompson on third. Klein sent a sacrifice fly to Heathcote and Thompson scored. Hurst singled to left, sending Friberg to third. Whitney singled over English's head, scoring Friberg, Hurst stopping at second. Davis was safe on English's fumble, filling the bases. Thevenow singled in front of Wilson, scoring Hurst and Whitney. Wilson made a poor return to the infield, Thevenow taking second. Benge popped to Hornsby. FOUR RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

FIFTH INNING

Cubs—Bell doubled of the centerfield fence. Blake struck out. English hit a home run over the right field wall, scoring Bell ahead of him. Heathcote doubled off the rightfield fence. Thompson slid for Hornsby's grounder in back of second and it went for a single, but the stop held Heathcote at third. Wilson singled to right, scoring Heathcote, Hornsby stopping at second. Cuyler doubled down the left field foul line, scoring Hornsby and putting Wilson on third. Hartnett sent a sacrifice fly to Friberg, Cuyler scoring and Kelly taking third. Bell singled to right center, scoring Kelly but Bell was out stretching it, Klein to Thevenow.

SEVEN RUNS.

SIXTH INNING

Cubs—Blake singled over short. English singled to right, Blake stopping at second. Benge was taken out, Collard replaced him. Heathcote forced English, Thevenow to Thompson. Hornsby singled to Short, Blake scoring, Heathcote holding second. Wilson hit into a double play, Thompson

101 GRIDMEN OUT AT YALE

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 15 (AP)—Candidates for Yale's 1930 football team reported to Head Coach Mal Stevens and his staff this morning for the initial workout of the season.

A squad of 101 candidates, 16 of them "Y" men, were on the field and a larger number are expected to report for the second practice this afternoon.

Two teams of veterans were chosen and sent through signal practice with Albie Booth at the quarterback position on the first eleven. A tentative varsity squad of 25 men was selected by Coach Stevens, who plans to add to this number daily until the opening of the season on September 27 with Maine.

Fred Loeser was sent in at center on the first eleven to fill the gap created by the graduation of Palmer and Phillips.

Fine Sports Program for Hub Tercentenary Week

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

Boxing, baseball and football, together with a long list of other contests, will feature this week's sport menu.

Knowing that sports claim a great deal of every person's interest, Mayor James M. Curley, aided by ark Commissioner Long has arranged an elaborate program with Bostonians holding the chief roles.

As great a card of sporting events as Boston has ever witnessed will get its official start this morning when Mayor Curley and Commissioner Long tee off in a foursome against two members of the press in a Newspaperman's Golf Tournament at the public course at Franklin Park. The program continues early Thursday morning and will proceed right through the day.

Football, baseball, track, soccer, hurling, quoits, tennis, volley ball, bowling-on-the-green, Gaelic football and other events are listed on the sporting side of this Tercentenary party.

Braves Will Play All-Star Park Nine

The Boston Braves mingle with an all-star team, chosen from park department nines in the baseball contest. The game will be played at Franklin Field and not at the Tepee, for it is Boston Week, and it is only fitting that the ball game be staged on a public field.

Freddy Maguire and Bill Cronin, two of the Braves roster, started their careers on Boston sandlots. Maguire in Roxbury and Cronin in Newton, and they'll return to scenes of their boyhood days.

The tennis matches will start at 10 in the morning. Many famous court stars, those who have brought fame to Boston, will play. The list includes Sarah and Mianne Palfrey, Mrs. George W. Wightman, Barry Wood, J. Brooks Fenno, the Boehm twins, Hilda and Helen, and Malcolm T. Hill.

Boston is importing two great long distance runners for the track events, and the local boys will try to stop the invaders from taking away the honors. Ray Conger and Gus Moore are the two runners who will be present.

The volley ball champions of the United States will be present, willing to meet and defend their title against any invading team that chooses to enter the competition.

Bowling-on-the-green contests, for both men and women, will start at 10 o'clock in the morning.

One of the most interesting of the events will be a football game between Dorchester high school and Boston College high school. B. C. H. produced the schoolboy championship eleven a year ago, while Dorchester, under Bill Pendergast, is always one of the leading contenders for the City of Boston school title.

While these sporting events are under the direction of the city and sponsored by the Tercentenary committee, there are also a number of other events that will add to the glory of the ceremonies, although unofficially.

Braddock-Mercurio in Garden Feature

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

The correct way to make your swing, for any golf shot, is something like this: Select the line of flight and determine the club to be used. Then picture yourself making a smooth, free-flowing swinging action with the club. Now the way you address, think of that smooth swing and give your attention to the ball. Then swing, and allow no thought to change your picture of the smooth, easy, natural swing. That gives you the foundation. Now playing your golf this way will instantly change your whole action. You'll find yourself thinking in terms of smoothness. You'll find yourself timing better. You'll see your iron shots become crispy, and you'll see the ball go, bullet-like, as you have not been accustomed to seeing it. Concern about force and strength in your swing will vanish. Your action will slow up, in the back swing, since this action cannot be smooth and quick, too. And in golfing this way you'll at last put your hands on the cure for most all your troubles, and progress will be steadily toward better golf.

Horween Pessimistic as Crimson Grid Men Report

PICKS 40 FOR VARSITY SQUAD

Setting a precedent, Coach Arnold Horween announced a division of his grid army before it took the field for the first workout. Forty varsity members, led by Capt. Ben Ticknor, ran through plays under the watchful eyes of Coach Horween and his assistants, Duke Dunn, Charlie Bradford, Eddie Casey, Walter Cleary and Art French.

Jimmy Knox, coach of the second varsity, took 88 aspirants to another part of the field where they were started on plays after a short grass drill.

Horween Is Not as Optimistic as in '29

Horween is not so optimistic about the 1930 season as he was at the start of last season. This was revealed in an interview with the press after the morning drill.

"As I see it, we have lost our best ends and tackles, and the loss of Harper in the backfield is serious," Horween said.

"As far as material goes, I think we are about where we were in the middle of last season. We have Wood, Maya, Devens and White, all of proven varsity caliber. But we have practically nothing to look for from the freshmen, and the newcomers from the second varsity squad, like Murdock, Finlayson, and Schereschewsky have yet to prove their ability.

"Another thing that makes me pessimistic is the scarcity of quarterbacks. Barry Wood cannot be expected to play the whole season, so Art Huguley has to be drafted.

"Ben Ticknor will remain at center, and some solution for the guards and tackles will be worked out this week."

After a short grass drill led by Art French, present coach of the Harvard freshman team, Arnie had his varsity squad divided into A, B and C elevens. While no official statements as to how these were lined up was given, it was noted that Barry Wood, Eddie Maya, Charlie Devens and Bernie White worked in the eleven of which Ben Ticknor was center.

Two Workouts Daily for Squad

The drill lasted an hour, after which the teams were sent to the showers. Two workouts a day, except Wednesday and Saturday, will be the program for the balance of the week.

Ends: Jim Baldwin, Gilbert Graves, Vic Harding, Lawrence Lovell, Yahan Meneghian, Bob Ogden, Horace Reisner.

Guards: Mal Bancroft, Bill Brooks, Jim Esterley, Al Kidder, Henry Myerson, George Talbot, John Tredway.

Centers: Charlie Cunningham, Henry Glides, Roger Hallowell, Capt. Ben Ticknor.

Quarterbacks: Barry Wood, Dana Greeley, Art Huguley, Jim Leonard, Sumner Pittman.

Backs: Sam Batchelder, Rawe Brinkley, Jack Crickard, Charlie Devens, Al Alexander, Ebsey, Price, Fullam, Eddie Mays, Eugene Record, Johnny Schereschewsky, Bernie White.

HARVARD THROWS OUT ITS FOOTBALL SKIRMISHING LINES

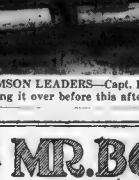
HERE THEY COME!—The Harvard leading, racing on the field for the first football practice of the season. Horween is pessimistic as the season begins across the Charles.

MR. BOSTON by JACK CONWAY



Mr. Boston says Victorio Campolo will receive only $7500 for his 15-round bout with Jack Sharkey at the Yankee Stadium, New York, on September 25, while the American heavyweight champion will pull down $100,000.

"When Campolo signed a four-fight contract with the New York Garden last winter, the articles of agreement called for guarantees of $10,000 for the first two matches, $20,000 for the third contest and a 20 per cent privilege for the fourth conflict," asserted Mr. Boston.

"The Garden paid Campolo $10,000 for each of the matches with Risko, Jack Conway and was under obligations to kick in with $20,000 for the third engagement.

"When Sharkey lost to Schmeling, it was decided to send Campolo against the American champion. It was argued that Sharkey had given Schmeling a boxing lesson up to the time the bout ended on a foul and was generally recognized as the best of the heavyweight crop.

"William F. Carey, president of the Garden, opened negotiations with Johnny Buckley for a Sharkey-Campolo bout.

"'Of course Sharkey will fight Campolo,' Buckley told Carey, 'but Jack's price tags read $100,000.'

"The Garden at first refused to grant Buckley's demands, but made a right-about-face when Chicago promoters bid $100,000 for Sharkey to meet Primo Carnera.

Campolo Cut Purse From $20,000 to $7500

"Campolo made it possible for the Garden to agree to pay Sharkey $100,000 when he cut his purse from $20,000 to $7500. He is so confident of his ability to knock Sharkey out that he jumped at the opportunity to get the Squire into a ring with him.

"In this respect, Campolo took a page out of the books of Dempsey and Sharkey. Dempsey accepted $25,000 to battle Jess Willard, while Sharkey didn't waste any time agreeing to tackle Harry Wills for $17,500.

"Dempsey knew that if he licked Willard he would be able to write his own ticket, while Sharkey looked upon the Wills match as his big ring opportunity.

"The Willard victory has netted Dempsey $3,000,000 while Sharkey has picked up $1,000,000 as a result of his conquest of Wills.

"Campolo will take his gamble in the Sharkey bout. If he wins, he will fight Young Stribling in Miami, Fla. next February for a purse of from $75,000 to $100,000. Wins over Sharkey and Stribling would mean that Campolo would collide with Max Schmeling for the world's title in New York next June.

"Never venture never gain. Dempsey and Sharkey got there by taking a gamble. Campolo feels he will do as well.

National League Race One of Greatest Ever

"The terrific struggle between the Cards, Cubs and Dodgers for first place in the National League has steamed up baseball fans everywhere. Meanwhile the turnstiles are clicking merrily. The Giants are also out so far behind that they can be counted out of the running. If McGraw had been on the job, I feel that the 'Little Napoleon' would have whipped his outfit into the lead.

"A $2,000,000 game at the international polo matches proves there is real interest in this sport. The two games had an average attendance of 45,000.

"I congratulate the Enterprise on its great victory, but I feel sorry for Sir Thomas Lipton. Maybe his Shamrock V will do better in the races to come. I hope so.

"Paul Bowser, who has been racing a stable of horses at New York state fairs, will return to town the latter part of this month. He will then give his attention to the opening of the wrestling season. Bowser keeps a stable of racing horses for the pleasure he gets out of the sport. He always takes the reins himself.

Spellman Enters Hopkins School

Lawrence "Wongie" Spellman, Medford's unanimous all-scholastic quarterback last fall, left for New Haven, Conn., where he will take a two-year course at Hopkins prep, from which he will enter either Harvard or Yale.

Omaha, Sept. 15 (AP)—The overlords of the flatic realm gathered here today for the opening session of the annual convention of the National Boxing association.

Delegates from the 30 States which are members of the association plan to discuss the various problems of the sport, chief of them the future employment of Herr Max Schmeling, world champion heavyweight, and the present foul rulling.

Early arrivals indicated that there was a sentiment favoring a demand that Schmeling defend his championaip against Young Stribling.

Evening American Miniature Golf Tourney on Tomorrow

The Boston Evening American miniature golf championship tournament on selected miniature golf courses will open tomorrow.

Any man, woman or child may compete in this popular sport and have the opportunity of appearing in the semi-finals to be conducted at each course listed. The finals will be conducted in Boston Garden the week of September 29th during the radio show.

Weekly prizes will be awarded at each of the courses. The list of these prizes will be found when you visit the course tonight or tomorrow. Rules of the contest may be found at each course and in all plays, local course rules will govern.

Thousands of golfers who have been waiting for this opportunity will now have the pleasure of trying their skill in this fascinating game.

There are no restrictions as to the number of times you may play, but to compete in the tournament, it is necessary to play at least once on each of the courses included in this tournament.

The tournament has already aroused great interest in this new sport. It is possible for a man and his wife, for a young man and his sweetheart, to be among those competing in the semifinals or finals.

There will be a separate flight for men and a separate flight for women in the finals and semifinals. All of the courses participating are within a short auto ride of Boston and may be easily located.

Many of the course managers prefer to have the youngsters play in the afternoon so as to relieve the congestion in the evening.

Every course is provided with an additional supply of golf clubs in preparation for the Boston Evening American tournament.

The complete prize list, including weekly awards, will be published in the Boston Evening American tomorrow, or may be secured at any of the tournament courses.

Patterson Now Operates Popular Wayland Club

John Adams Patterson announces the purchase of the Wayland Golf Club, a popular nine hole course, and work will start soon to enlarge the course to 18 holes.

Everything is in readiness for the opening today of his new nine hole natural miniature course, a new innovation to golfers.

This course offers an excellent opportunity to improve on chip and putting, and will be known as a chip and putt course.

Giants Purchase Rochester Ace

New York, Sept. 15 (US)—John Berly, ace of the Rochester pitching staff, was purchased by the Giants for delivery next spring Berly is a big right-hander with a fine record in the International League.

NATION HEARS THUD OF THE PIGSKIN

By BILL GRIMES

With the springing of the barrier which will release Harvard, Yale, Princeton, the Big Ten and the Pacific Coast Conference elevens today, King Football will occupy the center of the sport stage for the next 10 weeks.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton will hold their first practice sessions of the season today. Although this will be the initial workout under the watchful eyes of their respective coaches, all of the candidates for these teams have been in training for weeks.

Bill Grimes

The Western Conference teams hold long and very strenuous spring practice sessions during which they play regular games, and for this reason they are all set to step right into formation drills at the start of the regular season.

Although the Pacific Coast Conference teams have an agreement which prohibits practice sessions until Sept. 15, they have been playing class football for weeks. Because the 1929 championship wound up in a four-cornered tie, the battle for supremacy on the coast will be the bitterest in the annals of football.

As usual, the big interest centers around Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, Princeton and Pennsylvania in the East, and the teams of the Mid-Western Pacific Coast and Southern Conferences.

But it will be well to watch some of the smaller colleges, notably Fordham, Fitchburg and Western Maryland. Of course Notre Dame has the call over the field and is the greatest attraction in football, despite the fact that the Fighting Irish carry few traditions into any of their contests.

School Elevens Set to Go

GRID SEASON TO OPEN ON SATURDAY

By BILL CONNELL

Schoolboy football crashes into full stride this week, many of the leading elevens listed to open their schedules on Saturday.

Medford, Somerville, Malden, Everett, Salem, Brockton, Beverly and others will give their friends and foes a chance to size up the prospects for the season ahead.

Coach Marion Roberts' Brockton eleven which now lines up as one of the strong teams of the year, has listed a game with Milton. The latter is not likely to give the Shoe City club much trouble, however, as the Milton team is rebuilding after losing a flock of veterans.

Bill Connell

Capt. Pete Pinski halfback one of the best of school ball carriers, leads a powerful team against Milton. Five backfield letternen of last year, and an equal number from the '29 line, are with the Brockton group.

Practically this same bunch applied through the last seven games of the difficult 1929 list while holding the opposition to seven points. So with this first tilt warm-up game for the Medford clash of the following Saturday, Brockton has an opportunity to thoroughly try out its offense and get some valuable defense play if Milton gives its foe any kind of a battle.

Salem Eleven Plays Cambridge Latin

Bill Fredrick sends his Salem team into a tough game when Cambridge High and Latin lock at against the Witch City.

Norman Rand, Salem halfback, last season was one of the finest performers seen around this State, but he had a great line to start behind and with most of that front wall gone, Rand may have his troubles getting started. He is heavier than last year, though, and has the stuff to fill through the strong Salem enemies " he gets half a break.

Phil Herman and Fred / rlod, a regular and first-call sub respectively on last year's Salem team, will work with Rand in the backfield.

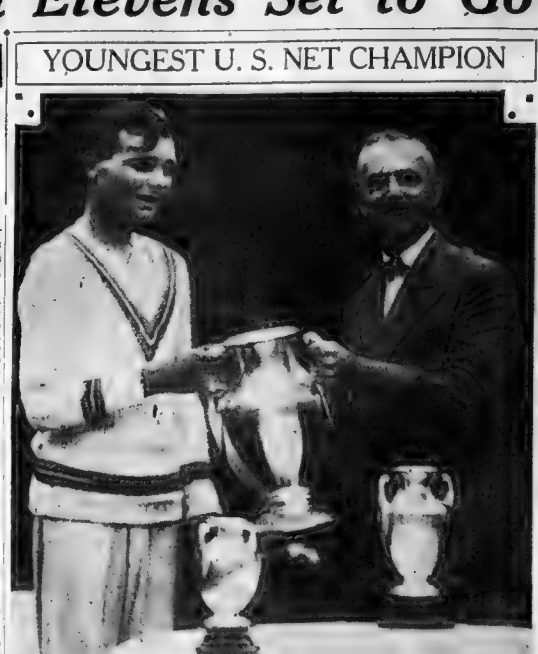
Steve Patten will loose his eleven warriors against Gloucester Beverly, with a very heavy, fast and experienced squad, under the capable direction of Patten, is apt to start this season with an overwhelming win.

Everett Opens With Worcester Trade

Sid Goldstein captains Everett. He will lead his mates against Worcester Trade. Denny Gildea has practically a new team at Everett, and the aggregation will get a full testing in the skirmish.

Medford faces Wakefield in another Saturday scrap. While Larry Spellman and others have departed from the Blue and White ranks, Medford has enough material from last year to cope with Wakefield.

YOUNGEST U. S. NET CHAMPION



John Doeg

JOHN DOEG of California receiving the championship cup from Louis D. Dailey, president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association, after the twenty-year-old player defeated Frank Shields of New York in the final match of the U. S. singles championships. Doeg had to defeat Wilden to earn the match with Shields. He is the youngest singles champion in the history of tennis. (International Newsreel photo.)

The latter part of last week we hopped blithely up the short flight of stairs which lead from that alley running parallel to the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. building, into the rarified atmosphere of WEEI'S executive offices. It was our intention to gossip a bit with good old Louie Whitcomb, whom most of you have heard on the air, and who is assistant to Charles Burton, director of the station.

Lou was out getting his noonday beans, or whatever it is that broadcasting officials eat; EFA, renowned announcer and versatile performer before the "Mike" was also missing; Charlie Burton, too, must have been in conference with "The Captain and the Wilder," as we couldn't spy him anywhere.

After a heart-palpitating moment or two with the handsome "information" girl at the gate, we departed for the Little Building, which places good fortune awaited us on the fourth floor, where in his office we found Ralph Rogers, who had just returned from a business and pleasure trip to California.

Do you know who Ralph Rogers is? All right, we will enlighten you. Ralph is the nimble-witted young man who conceived and has been writing that very popular broadcast which has been on the air at least three years, "Mr. & Mrs." and which is now syndicated in quite a number of stations throughout the country.

We were anxious to find out if friend Rogers intended to put "The Bing Family" on the air again this season, which is another of his creations. We used to enjoy that Bing Family a heap; fact is we thought it about the best broadcast on the air, with no apologies to even "Amos 'n' Andy." We got the idea that Pa Bing couldn't be beat, although he probably deserved it. He was no — oh, well, what's the use of talking, we took the part of Pa Bing ourself.

It was quite a blow to learn that Ralph at present does not intend to let you hear the Bings this winter. He's laid them away in lavender and old lace, although it is possible he may dig them out and dress them up in new clothes.

Incidentally, while visiting in Los Angeles Rogers was invited to the studio where Amos 'n' Andy are making their pictures, and so much secrecy surrounds the filming of this production, and all matters connected with it, that only the highest officials of the production company for whom they are working know the nature of the picture or are allowed on the lot where it is being done.

So many names of successful radio artists and continuity writers are coming to our attention these days, practically all of whom seem to come from metropolitan districts other than our own immediate vicinity, that it is going to be a real pleasure when some genius will illuminate the news pages who claims Boston as his native city, and we have rather an idea that Rogers is going to be heard from before long. Keep your eye on him.

The Frank J. Burke broadcast, which goes on the air tonight at 10 on WLOE will present a varied assortment of radio talent, including Bob O'Leary's Red Top Serenaders, Julia Kramer, Jerry Meaney, Jan Walker, the Rhythm Twins, Harmony Duo, the Picardy Trio and a monologuing personage who calls himself Dr. Hangover. George Mackinnon will be master of ceremonies.

Out of the ether . . . Roxy and his Original Gang—that is as many of the original gang as are in or around N. Y. will gather before an NBC mike on the stage of the Roxy Theater tonight at 8:15, heard locally through WBZA . . . A Latin atmosphere pervades the General Motors Family Party program of tonight, heard over WEEI at 9:30. Nevin's Venetian Love Song," will be offered by the Spaniolers quartet; "La Paloma" will be played by the string ensemble, and "El Relicario," by Jose Padilla, who wrote "Valentia," will also be played by the ensemble . . . "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" will be timed to the music of a symphony orchestra on the Stromberg-Carlson program, WBZA at 10 o'clock . . . After a summer vacation the An Evening in Paris program returns to the ether tonight at 9:30 over WNAC. Innovations of the program are each week the latest fashion bulletins from Paris and such hints will be presented. An orchestra, under the direction of Domenico Savino will be heard and a male quartet will be present. Taylor Buckley will continue as master of ceremonies.

WE'RE READY TO GO ON AIR

Edna Covey, late of the Ziegfeld Follies, has assembled what is billed as one of the most pretentious and costly vaudeville acts to visit Boston, called "We're Ready." The act features Benny and Western, with Bernie Stevens and Cadets, with the O'Connor Twins. They are appearing at the Scollay Sq. this week.

The act will be a feature of the Boston American broadcast Tuesday evening at 6.45 over Station WLEX. Benny and Western have a new line of chatter prepared for the broadcast tomorrow evening . Stevens and Cadets will furnish some "hot music" and specialties. The O'Connor Twins will harmonize.

Last Political Broadcast to Be Heard From 10:30 to Midnight

After a week of hectic political speeches with each Boston radio station a medium for the candidates for office to reach the voters, the culmination comes tonight. Over WNAC from 10:30 until midnight the 11th hour political rallies will be broadcast.

This program of speech-making will be interspersed with music furnished by a military band under the direction of W. Barrington Sargent, well-known Boston band leader.

Instead of traveling over the state to deliver their last-minute messages to the voters many of the candidates have turned to the radio to reach their audience.

'Flying Wing' Plane Built for Army

Newark, N. J., Sept. 15—A startling-appearing "flying wing" airplane, armed fore and aft with machine guns and carrying a heavy load of bombs, is being completed for the army by the Fokker aircraft factory at Teterboro, it was learned today.

The ship will have the appearance of a gigantic wing soaring through the air, both motors being housed in the wings. The plane is expected to have a flying speed of 175 miles an hour.

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

RADIO Personalities

EDWIN WHITNEY, Colonial Beacon Lights actor, will be referred to by Robert L. Ripley on the Sept. 17 issue of the series. Rip will "believe-it-or-not" into believing Whitney played eight characters in one radio show . . . ARTHUR B. REEVES, who writes for NBC, lived five days a week in the country, and did much outside work before he entered the studio but now he is confined to N. Y., and has no time for anything but continuity . . . Wolf is in Miami, Fla., gave a benefit for the hurricane sufferers and raised $1000 . . . HERBERT GLADWELL, CBS control man, tried to get to five places at one time last Tuesday, and all he got was a ship wrecked on a seaplane off the Jersey coast. Arranged to be at Meadowbrook, Fresh Meadows, Roosevelt, and then decided to go to Roosevelt Field to fly to Lakehurst. Over the bridge deep the plane missed fire and landed on the water. A coast guard cutter picked them up after a lengthy interview . . . The Prediction Interviews broadcast will originate in N. Y., Chicago, South Bend, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles, depending on where ROCKNE, JONES and WARNER happen to be.

Billy B. Van Will Address Ad Club

Billy B. Van, comedian, will address the Advertising Club of Boston tomorrow at 12 30.

Starting a few years ago with ill health, no money and only an idea Mr. Van succeeded in bringing the scent of the pines, which restored his own health, to over a million people in the Pine Tree soap which bears his name within a year. A success possible only through his practical knowledge of personal and business advertising.

An extra feature of the luncheon will be songs by Miss Althea Bird, of Boston, presented through the courtesy of the Metropolitan Theater.

Revue Star

EDITH MEISER WHO WILL sing hit numbers at the Theater Guild's gala program from the three editions of the Garrick Gaieties, over WNAC this afternoon at 4:30.

Cathie's Yuletide Party Develops Into Family Squabble

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Catherine Paige marries her wealthy elderly employer, Alfred Farnsworth.

Farnsworth is a kind and indulgent husband, but the gloomy family mansion gets on Cathie's nerves. The soft-footed Chinese servants, under the direction of Cheong, have their quarters in the basement, and the sullen, once-beautiful maid-servant, Marguerite, who seems in possession of certain family secrets, has a room on the third floor.

Cut off from her own family by her wealth, snubbed by Farnsworth's friends, and hated by his son, Chester, and his wife, Enid, Cathie's life is lonely.

Gordon Moore, a business associate of her husband's, is a frequent guest at the house. Catherine admires him, but has no idea that Chester is watching, hoping to make trouble.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 22

(Copyright, 1930, by the Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MARY PAIGE would not come to the Farnsworth's for dinner, and before the day was over Cathie was glad. The big party she had planned dwindled to a foursome, Farnsworth and Cathie, and Enid and Chester.

Not a very cheerful foursome, in spite of the festive table. Cathie wore the star sapphire her husband had given her, and Chester could not keep his eyes off of it.

"A beautiful stone," he told Cathie over and over, "and one that cost a fortune, my girl!"

"It's very lovely," Cathie murmured, and tried to interest him in Enid's black pearl, but he would hardly glance at it, coming back every time to the star sapphire.

"Catherine appreciates it. She knows its value!" Farnsworth cut in, rather testily, at last.

Grows Sarcastic

Chester paused to light a cigaret. The flare of the match showed his sallow face distorted with malice.

"I dare say. She has learned very quickly," he drawled. "For a girl raised without any of the advantages she does very well. Very well, indeed. I don't suppose that my own wife, accustomed as she has been to every luxury, could spend money faster, or make better use of the Canary diamonds, or the star sapphire than our Catherine!"

Cathie clutched at the sapphire on its slender cord around her neck, looked appealingly at her husband. But no help came from him. He was eating, his eyes on his plate, and if he heard, he gave no sign.

Snap. The thin black cord broke under her frenzied fingers.

"Here!" She was sliding it across the damask cloth to Chester's place. "Take it. I don't want it. I don't want to take it from Enid. She can have the diamonds too, for all of me. I don't want anything. Anything but peace!" Her voice was breaking. They were all staring at her.

"Catherine!" Mr. Farnsworth quavered.

"Family Brawl"

Chester, still smiling maliciously, picked up the jewel. "I really wouldn't throw it, if I were you," he advised. "It's very delicate."

Enid stood up, "If yours going to have a family brawl you'll have to excuse me. My nerves aren't equal to it," she said.

But she wasn't quick enough. Cathie had already rushed from the room.

After Chester and his wife were gone Alfred Farnsworth tiptoed into Cathie's room. He had the sapphire, on its broken cord, in his hand.

"Chester is so sorry he hurt you," he said gently. "The boy doesn't mean to be cutting. I wish you two would try to be better friends." He sighed.

Cathie came and hid her face against his shoulder. "I'm sorry," she whispered. "I'm ashamed of myself. Losing my temper like that. Oh, what will become of me? What will become of me?"

He stroked her ruffled honey-colored hair. "There, there," he soothed. "You mustn't cry so! It's nothing. You mustn't worry."

"But I'm such a failure—after all you've done for me!"

Promise Unkept

For his sake she tried. The sobs died into small, strangled whimpers. She lifted her head and managed to smile through swt lashes. "I won't do it again," she promised, "I won't turn into one of those crying wives!"

He went on holding her in his arms. "To such family," he said, "that's it. I tell you, we'll go on a New Year's party to one of the big hotels, just you and me. Would you like that!"

She didn't really care. She didn't care if she ever went anywhere again. But she nodded and kissed him, and when New Year's eve

Revere Girl a Bride

EILEEN WALSH IS BRIDE

More than 700 persons today attended the wedding of Miss Eileen Walsh, daughter of Dr. John E. Walsh, former mayor of Revere, and Mrs. Walsh, to Frank J. Porcella of 140 Crest ave., Beachmont, at Immaculate Conception Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Timothy J. Holland, the pastor, and a solemn high nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Francis X. Salloway. A reception at the home of the bride's parents, 223 Beach st., followed.

The maid of honor was Miss Anna B. Walsh, sister of the bride, and the best man was a brother of the groom, Arthur S. Porcella. The bridesmaids were Miss Katherine Laraves, Miss Ann Gostaffson, Miss Natalie Scigliano and Miss Beatrice Porcella.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Holy Cross College and Harvard School of Business Administration. The bride was graduated from Revere High school and Burdett Business College.

WOODCOCK IN BOSTON FOR SPEECH

Says Women Called Him Here on Eve of Big Primary Election

Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, federal director of prohibition, declared today his speech scheduled tonight at Ford Hall has no political significance.

Col. Woodcock, here to inspect the first prohibition administrative district, said he was invited last July to deliver an address on his policies for enforcing prohibition.

When the invitation was given by "two Boston ladies," Mrs. Henry W. Peabody and Mrs. William Tilton, and accepted, Col. Woodcock was not aware a primary election was to be held here, he declared.

BUSINESS, ONLY, HE SAYS

"I wish you would make it clear to the public," he said, "that I have absolutely no intention of attempting to influence their judgment along political lines.

"My sole purpose is to repeat the statements which I have made over national radio hookups—that I propose to enforce the 18th amendment."

Col. Woodcock's address tonight is to be given under the auspices of the Law Enforcement League, who have billed the topic as "The Supreme Necessity of State Cooperation in Enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment."

The prohibition director made it plain he was not aware of the title of the organization nor the topic which they were advertising.

INSPECTION TOMORROW

Col. Woodcock said he plans to start out tomorrow with Rev. Jonathan E. Lewis on an inspection of the district, which has six deputy administrators. He refused to venture an opinion on liquor conditions in Boston and New England, stating he knew nothing about them.

He referred to his school for prohibition agents in Washington as one of the means of protecting the public from irritations in prohibition enforcement. In this school, according to Col. Woodcock, agents will be taught proper procedure and warned they must not enter any premises illegally.

200 Register at Opening of B. U.

Boston University officially opened its fall term this morning when over 200 freshmen registered at the college of practical arts and letters. Following the custom established years ago, freshmen registration is being held two days before the three upper classes. Although the college of practical arts and letters opened this morning, the other repartments of the university will not hold registration until the latter part of the week.

MAYOR ALSO TAKES SLAM AT COAKLEY AND ELY

By BERT FORD

Mayor Curley in an address at Pemberton sq. today charged that Chairman Frank J. Donahue of the Democratic State committee had made a "deal" with Louis K. Liggett, Republican national committeeman from Massachusetts, "to let the Republicans carry the State in 1928."

This was the mayor's reply to Chairman Donahue, who yesterday announced him for "dragging the racial issue into the present primary campaign."

"Donahue lays great stress on what they (the state committee) did for the Governor of New York (Al Smith) two years ago," said Mayor Curley.

"I charge him with making a trade with Louis K. Liggett whereby the committee would lie down and let the Republicans carry the State of Massachusetts.

"Maybe Liggett will tell you all about it, because he can if he dares to."

About 3000 heard the mayor's remarks. The meeting was in charge of Henry F. Lawler, chairman of the Democratic city committee.

TAKES WHACK AT COAKLEY

He declared that Daniel H. Coakley was backing Ely and delivered a vitriolic attack on Coakley

The mayor exhorted his listeners to vote for ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, in spite of the latter's withdrawal because of illness, asserting that only Fitzgerald or some able business man who might later be substituted for him coul dreliev the present depression.

"Conditions are pretty bad," he said. "Ten per cent of the patients at City Hospital are there from self-inflicted ills, just so they can get three square meals a day."

Throughout his address re ferred to Chairman Donahue as "Prewee" and "Daisy" Donahue.

"If I can only prevent that we send a man to the Governor's chair that will not have a minister figure, Dan Coakley, standing at the back of the chair with a gun at his head," the mayor said.

JUST A NICE LITTLE BOY.

"Now for Prewee Donahue. I have nothing personal against Daisy. He's a nice little boy, but he made a bad mistake in asking the Democrats of Massachusetts to vote for Joe Ely.

"That request is an insult to the intelligence of the Massachusetts Democrats.

"For myself I have nothing to gain through the situation in this campaign, but I would condemn myself if I remained silent in the most desperate attempt to sink the Democratic party ever made by naming a man it would be impossible to elect.

QUOTES ELY ON IRISH

"Should the Sailor was never in a more perilous position than smiling Joe Ely, the boy from the country, with Dangerous Dan McGrew at his side and holding a gun to his head.

The mayor showed files of newspapers from the Public Library which he said quoted Ely as saying at the state convention in 1919:

"If the Irish want to fight let them go back to Ireland."

These files were under police guard.

Candidate Seeks Watch on Voting

Declaring that he feared irregularities tomorrow during balloting in his district, Alderman John M. Gratian, one of 16 candidates for the Democratic nomination for the House in Somerville, asked the Middlesex County district attorney's office to maintain a watch at the polling places tomorrow.

$100 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston American offers the opportunity. Each week $100 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $25 given weekly for the best or an unusual event news tip received, $15 for the next best, $10 for the next best, two $5 prizes and $2 prizes for each of the 20 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

800 HENS ARE LOST IN BLAZE

Policeman Arouses Occupants of Farmhouse; Low Water Pressure Is Handicap

Eight hundred hens were roasted in a fire that swept the chicken farm of Joseph Beraldi, Derby st., West Newton, today.

It was discovered at dawn by Patrolman David Cummings, who gave the alarm and roused Beraldi, his wife and three children.

Firemen who responded were hampered by low water pressure in their efforts to save the chicken houses.

Chief Clarence W. Randlett, after examination of the ruins, declared the fire to have been of incendiary origin. Neighbors told of hearing a truck stop shortly before the flames were discovered.

The damage was estimated at $15,000.

3 COLLEGES AID RETAIL PARLEY

Aaron Sapiro, New York attorney, and father of the Standard Co-operative Marketing Act, will deliver an address to be broadcast over WNAC and the Columbia hookup on "What's Happened to Farm Distribution?"

The conference will be aimed chiefly at promoting better business and unemployment.

Among co-operative organizations represented will be the Cleveland Retail Merchants' Board, the Advertising Federation of America, National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers, Wholesale Dry Goods Institute, Inc.; National Dry Goods Association, New York Retail Dry Goods Association, Garment Retailers of America, Specialty Stores Association, Inc.; Association of National Advertisers, Inc.; Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants and the Pittsburgh Retail Merchants' Association.

NAME TRUSTEES IN SHIP SUIT

Nine accounts of the Bay State Shipping Company, whose conduct of the army base terminal is under investigation by the Boston Board of Port Authority, were trustees today by attorneys representing Stewart Sherburne of Lexington.

Sherburne sued for $3000 in March, 1922, stating he had given the company that sum and had not been repaid, nor had he received any stock in lieu of the money.

The company filed a bond at that time but the attorneys recently obtained a special precept from the court requiring a new bond.

The accounts examined are deposits of the company at the Atlantic National Bank and accounts receivable due the concern from the New Haven railroad, C. H. Sprague & Son, Rogers & Webb, Jones Hardwood Company, Jennejs & Lux Company, Portland Stoneware Company, C. M. Cox & Company, Patterson, Wylde & Company and Winslow Brothers & Smith.

Be Patriotic—Wear a 'Boston Day' Hat

EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD in Boston and Greater Boston ought to make sure that they will get a Boston Day Tercentenary hat. It will be given away as a Tercentenary feature with all editions of the Boston Evening American tomorrow. Mayor Curley folded one of the sheets and here is how he looks. (Staff photo.)

American Will Offer Tercentenary Hats

Your boy and girl—every boy and girl in New England, in fact—will want one of these Tercentenary hats of red, white and blue.

The Boston Evening American tomorrow (Tuesday), in all editions, will carry a special separate insert, which can be easily folded into an attractive patriotic hat.

These will bear a Tercentenary symbol, the words Boston Day, and the dates, September, 1630-September, 1930.

Not only are the colors appropriate for the occasion, but the hats are the famous overseas shape which came into prominence in the World War, which look so nifty, and which have been highly prized by small boys ever since.

Mayor Curley tried one of these hats on today, and was delighted with it. It was the first one off the presses and was presented to him because he is the big figure in Boston's Big Day tomorrow.

Whether the children are watching that great marching host in the streets of Boston, or are just about their everyday schooling and play, nothing will please them more than the Tercentenary hats.

It's a hard blow to a boy when the other fellow has something like this and he hasn't. And the same goes for the girls. Thousands will wear them, and they are free with every copy of the Boston Evening American.

SEEK CROWN AS 'FLOWER QUEEN'

Ten girls were chosen to enter the final contest to see who will act as the Tercentenary "Flower Queen" in the parade on Wednesday. They will meet tonight on the stage of the Metropolitan Theater for the final test.

Of these girls, one will be chosen as "Queen" while five others will be chosen to act as maids of honor on the float sponsored by the Boston Florists' Association. During the parade they will distribute flowers to spectators.

May Be Queen

DENIES GANGS RULE CHICAGO

Governor Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois, in Boston today as a delegate to the 118th annual meeting of the Supreme Council of 33d degree Masons, protested any current belief that Chicago is "gang ridden" or in any way below the social and moral scale of other large cities.

"It should be borne in mind," he said, "that Chicago is the second largest city in the United States and that the proportion of gang activities might naturally be larger than in smaller places.

"There is nothing the matter with Chicago."

Speaking of the political situation, Gov. Emmerson freely predicted that Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick would "win in a walk" in her contest for the United States Senate.

"Mrs. O'Neill, her opponent and the avowed dry candidate, is an admirable woman, but I do not believe her campaign will meet with success," he said.

"I base this judgment on the trend of the times not only throughout the country as thus far indicated, but upon the sentiment as I interpret it in my own state."

Governor Emmerson is the first of a number of distinguished members and guests who will attend the Supreme Masonic Council to register at the Statler headquarters.

W. J. Collins Rites Tuesday, Cambridge

Funeral services for William J. Collins, for 12 years a Cambridge building inspector, will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow with high mass of requiem at St. Paul's church, Cambridge. Collins died Saturday at his home, 3 Dana st., Cambridge.

He was born at Athol 57 years ago and moved to Cambridge 30 years ago where he conducted a contracting business for 15 years. During the World War he served as an inspector of state armories. His widow, Mrs. Margaret Hall Collins, and one daughter, Mrs. Doris Howe of Wells, Me., survive.

WIDOW, KIDDIES FACE EVICTION

Twenty dollars a week won't house, clothe and feed a mother and ten children.

Mrs Bertha Kelsey of 26 Lincoln st., Charlestown, knows well it won't feed her family or clothe them, and the landlord says it won't house them. They are being evicted.

Help she doesn't ask in a monetary way, but Mrs. Kelsey, who is a widow, does beg for someone who will give work to her eldest child, George, 20, and her eldest daughter, Georgianna, 16.

She is making a struggle to keep the smaller children in school for their own good, but found that the $20 the city gives her each week was almost gone after she went out and bought shoes and things for them to wear to school.

This is the letter that Dorothy wrote for her mother:

Dear Editor:

We just lost our dear papa who died Aug. 27 and left ten of us children. No insurance. My oldest brother is trying to get work so he can help mother, but we are having a terrible hard time.

My mother is heartbroken since papa died but she has to tramp the streets now looking for a place to move to. We have to move this week, but where and how we don't know. Our landlord said we had to go.

The city gives my mother something but it is not enough for so many. Five of us are going to school. My brother, George, is getting up at four o'clock every morning to do his work, but he has an auto driver's license and can do that sort of work.

I do hope you can help us by finding work for him, and also for my sister who had a job but was laid off.

SAFE CRACKERS DRINK ON JOB

Thieves who smoked and drank freely while at work, broke two safes in the offices of the Palmer Mullen Co., Inc., on Franklin st., Malden, some time yesterday. They got nothing, as the money had been deposited.

On the floor of the office was found a number of cigarette butts and a small quantity of whiskey in a bottle.

State police were called in and several fingerprints were taken from the doors of the safes.

LITTLE SOLDIER BRIGHTENED BY GIFT

Mother of Eleanor Green Filled With Gratitude for Many Benefactors

Goodness is not always repaid, and in the case of Roxbury's "Little Soldier," pain and suffering are her reward for patience and faith.

Eleanor Green is bearing her burden with courage and the recent attack of very poor health brings no complaint from the bedside to which little Eleanor is again confined.

The gifts of toys alone brighten the shabby room, and Eleanor is unable to express her appreciation of the generosity of the public in sending them to her.

"Why, they are just lovely," she repeats over and over again.

Mrs. Green, who understands the sacrifice made by so many people for her dying baby, says:

"I don't really know how to thank everybody. It is so very hard to express appreciation, and my heart is overbrimming with love and gratitude for all that has been done for me.

"It is only a question of time as to how long Eleanor will be by my side, and each day she becomes dearer to me. I know that all mothers will understand my feelings, and all I can say to them is just "thank you."

One generous donor writes to Eleanor:

"I have been lighting a vigil light the past two Sundays at mass and will do so each week until you are well. Keep up your wonderful courage."

Another says:

"May this contribution help to carry a little ray of sunshine and health to her weakened body."

MOTHER WHITES

A mother of three small children tells us:

"When I read about little Eleanor in my two oldest little girls a few days ago they both wanted to take a dollar out of their savings and send it to the little girl for oranges. Each night when they say their prayers, they pray that Eleanor will get stronger every day and will soon be as well and strong as they are."

WOMEN FAVOR 'BUY NOW' PLAN

The idea is spreading. People are awakening to the wisdom of the principle of economy and prosperity involved in the Boston American's BUY NOW CLUB.

Emma Fall Schofield, assistant to the attorney-general of Massachusetts, president of the Business and Professional Women's Republican Club and a woman whose insight into the weal and woe of the people is well known, said:

Speaking of the American's Buy Now Club and in submitting her name as a member, Mrs. Schofield said:

"It is not a bit surprising that thrifty New England women have always been taught to save their pennies for a rainy day, should feel in these days when they are not so secure as they used to be, that a course of rigid economy is the proper one to pursue. But in being so extremely economical are they not, perhaps, pouring the very evil which they fear?

"Would it not be wise for housekeepers whose husbands have good jobs and who can afford to buy to buy now?

A BIGGER, HANDIER PACKAGE of Free-Running

INTERNATIONAL SALT

From Cohasset to Fame

DOROTHEA JAMES, born in Cohasset, has clicked as a dancer in stageland. Her booster is none other than Jack Donahue, of the Charlestown Donahues. Dorothea made good in movies, now she will come back to let Boston folk see a Massachusetts dancing girl in dances extraordinary. (Kopian.)

Cohasset Welcomes Red-Head Heroine

Oh, a red-headed woman . . .

If there are any hurdling freight trains about Boston during the next two weeks you can blame Dorothea James.

Her hair is that shade of red and her eyes are that shade of brown that goes with that shade of red hair and if Ciara Bow is "It," then Dorothea tagged her.

She's a little Cohasset girl who made good in the big city in a large way and on her next birthday she will be 20—that's plenty.

Not only Cohasset but the whole South Shore will turn out this week when Dorothea comes home, but being a dancer of extraordinary grace (says Charlestown Jack Donahue), she has no use for fatted calves.

She will do two specialties in "Princess Charming" the operetta opening at the Shubert tonight. She was born in Cohasset, daughter of Walter and Ida James; her grandparents, the Atwood Ainsleys, still live there.

She schooled in Boston and New York. She was featured in the movies with Wesley Barry at the age of 11. She's been on stage and screen ever since and during the past few years her dancing feet have carried her to the heights. If Jack Donahue says she's good, Bo-ton is apt to believe it's so.

She's 5 ft. 5½ in. and a little taller than that when she's dancing on tiptoe. Her weight is 115 pounds (Cohasset papers please copy, and she hasn't given a thought to boy friends or a husband.

The most extraordinary thing about her is that she doesn't think she's a world-beater, and that her parents never hoped she'd be a school teacher or anything but an actress. And she hasn't any idea that dancing uplifts the mind or the soul.

"It's just a lot of fun," she says.

HEADLIGHTS GLARE IS BLAMED

Boston Man and Women Are Among Victims Taken to Hospital

Two Boston persons were among ten hurt early today in a collision between a bus and a truck, near Suffield, Ct. They are Catherine Murray and Walter Williams.

Carl Weatherbee of Boston, the bus driver, was arrested and will have a hearing a week from today. The only explanation of the accident given by either driver was that they were blinded by headlights.

James Davis of New York city and Walter Williams of Boston were taken to Hartford Hospital. Miss Catherine Murray of Boston, Miss Lottie McLaughlin of Philadelphia, Miss Peggy Mountain of Black Hill, Pa., and J. C. McCarthy of New York city, were taken to a Springfield hospital. None of the injured is in serious condition.

DELAY PHELAN WILL SUIT

Contest of the will of George E. Phelan, manager of the George Robert White Fund, scheduled to open today before Judge Dolan in probate court, was continued to September 24 because of the illness of Joseph E. Proctor, counsel for the contestants.

Contesting the will are Mrs. Virginia L. Tewksbury of Exeter, N. H., a sister, and Edna Virginia Hamilton of Portland, Me., and Edna Phelan Gregory of Fryburg, Me., nieces.

READY FOR DISTRIBUTION. Ballots for the State primary election on which Boston voters will signify their choices for the November election are shown here being carried into City Hall. The ballots will be distributed from City Hall to the various polling places throughout the city. (Staff photo.)

50-Year-Old Lobster Here for Inspection by Salad Experts

A lobster, estimated to be 50 years old, four feet long and weighing 28 pounds 4 ounces was brought in today by the Boston dragger Nina B.

Capt. Ray Muise hoped to get it to Boston alive, but it died. He will have it stuffed and mounted for exhibition and may later give it to a museum.

It is said to be the largest lobster ever brought into Boston, its nearest competitor being one which old-timers recall having weighed 25 pounds, caught several years ago.

GUARD PUT OVER BALLOT BOXES

Boston's 339 ballot boxes, to be used tomorrow at precinct polling places throughout the city, were delivered to City Hall under police guard today from the office of Secretary of State Cook.

Three policemen will guard the boxes until 2.43 a. m. tomorrow, when deliveries start to the polling places.

Identification Tags for Dogs Are Urged

A plea for a more efficient system of protecting lost dogs is made by William E. Brigham, managing director of the Animal Rescue League of Boston, who, in a letter to the press, points out that present laws do not require any mark of identification for dogs that assists in returning lost animals to their owners.

Ryan, Inviter of Many Mayors, Wins Honor

William A. Ryan of Linden st., Dorchester, who for the past seven years has been in correspondence with mayors throughout the world in connection with Boston's Tercentenary observance and his dream of a "world league of cities," will be the guest at Hotel Statler tonight of Mayor Frederick Lee of Coventry, England.

The occasion will be the first personal reward for Ryan's efforts, recently officially recognized by the city.

He is corresponding secretary of the Boston Centennial Association, and the gathering for more than 100 mayors at Boston Garden tomorrow night is due in large part to his activities in 9 years when Boston's tercentenary celebration was but a hazy dream in the minds of city officials.

Schumann-Heink at Tour Meeting

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, famous contralto, will be guest artist at the Tour Meeting tomorrow night at the Boston Garden as part of Boston's tercentenary program.

She will sing here again in November at a benefit concert to be given under the auspices of the Durant Inc., a charity organization.

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

Loretta Young

ONE OF THE BEST points about this talkie version of the famous Belasco melodrama is that it has motion picture values. It is not a play, as in most of the disappointed productions that have come down the picture pike. The camera can sweep and swing, the Western landscapes offer the opportunity, and expert direction has been quick to grasp the chance. Thus one gets a great deal of action, camera interest feeding the imagination, and play of lights and shadows through periods when the human voice is not heard. Then, too, the acting in general is above the talkie average. All of these things make for good entertainment.

James Ronnie

IT IS UNFORTUNATE "The Girl" does not end as she began through most of its length the movie speeds on superbly. Then suddenly comes a drop a fall with a thud! The story is old and needs but little space to recall its points to memory. Minnie, the "scorine cowgirl" of a saloon The man re Idolize her. Even the sheriff loves her. She falls for Johnson, who is a guilty leader of a robber gang. The sheriff identifies him, and trails him to Minnie's cabin. She hides her sweetheart but he is discovered; to save him Minnie offers to play cards—the stake is his life.

MINNIE CHEATS AND WINS the game. That is the peak of the plot. Things happen after that; but the resulting sequences are weak, and not even Miss Harding can bolster one's interest in the poor finish, which rides in otherwise splendid film. As casting Miss Harding are several sterling persons, including James Ronnie and J. Farrel MacDonald Harry Bannister, real life husband of Miss Harding, has the role of Rance.

Keith's has other interesting features on the new program.

'Sweet Adeline' in Premier Tonight

Loretta Young Is Given Chance to Shine With Ronald Colman

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service.
Copyright 1930 by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 15—All's well that ends well is not such a bad saying, even if it is bromide for this up and coming age. By that I mean Loretta Young, who is free from First National contractual obligations until the studio officially opens the first of January, will probably play opposite Ronald Colman.

IF FIRST NATIONAL hadn't had the temporary shutdown Loretta would never have been able to accept Samuel Goldwyn's offer.

And if Sam hadn't decided to retake all the scenes in "The Prodigal" well, there wouldn't have been a chance for Miss Young. Constance Cummings was in the original production and Irving Cummings was director. Now Constance is dancing with Mr. Young as the heroine passing up the popular Mr. Colman in Frederick Lonsdale's small comedy. Ivan Simpson has been engaged to direct the dialogue.

YOU MIGHT AS WELL get used to these newcomers We are in for a season of them if I know my movies. Let a company get a welcome stranger in the midst of many unwelcome ones and the rush is on. John Boles will feature Warren Hymer, who played a part in "Up The River." Now he will be the featured player of "The Seas Beneath," a story by Dudley Nichols and William Slavens McNutt. Er, Warren Hymer, who is all the crowd of players was able to get the attention of the powers that be — Fox. While we are mentioning Fox, it is interesting to know that Lois Moran has been chosen for the feminine lead in "Liliom." If I have already said that Chandler Sprague will direct, stop me. I know that I said Warner Baxter is the star but it was a long time ago.

ALTHOUGH CLARA BOW remains in Hollywood where she can be under the eye of Paramount Nancy Carroll goes to New York to make "Two Against Death," by Dana Burnett. It is Nancy's next, too. Clara will be directed by Frank Tuttle in "Ubersetter" here in Hollywood.

Perhaps Paramount thought it wise not to encourage any romance between Clara and Harry Richman and you know what propinquity does. Anyway Clara says she is in love with Rex Bell, Fox cowboy, and Rex tells the world he is in love with Clara so perhaps notice I use the word perhaps—then will be the first movie printing.

NEWS ITEMS OF INTEREST: In Hollywood concern the contract which Art Ungar has signed with Universal as associate producer. Mr. Ungar has been associated with Variety since the formation of the Hollywood office. His contract with Universal starts September 26. He will be assistant to Carl Laemmle, Jr., and his special job will be to keep an eye on production. Other items of interest are the plans made by Mary Lewis for a radio engagement in New York. She and Seena Owen are eastward bound to spend a month or more in the big town while Miss Lewis arranges her singing and radio contracts. There are reports that Mary may force Pathe to declare themselves in her contract, which was entered into some months ago.

A PRESS AGENT HAS to have brains, you will admit. No person without an imagination and a sense of humor would ever qualify in this exacting game. Samuel Hoffenstein, who for years was A. H. Woods' press agent and who, I remember, prized many poor reporters as much as asked for seats for a flop on a dull Monday night, has become one of the famous modern poets. His "poems in praise of practically nothing" put him right in the front line. Now Sammy, former P. A., is coming out to Paramount to write. It just doesn't seem possible that he has now become one of our highest-salaried writers.

BARD FLINGS ONE AT 'POLS'

There is one comedy line in "Twelfth Night," in which Jane Cowl is now playing at the Wilbur, which draws from the audiences these nights the biggest laugh of the whole performance. Yet it is a laugh that probably would not come at any other time of the year, for it is one that has timely quality, though it was written 300 years ago.

The line occurs in the scene in the cellar of Olivia's house when Sir Toby Belch, Sir Andrew Aguecheek and the Clown are enjoying a drinking bout. The three are very uproarious. At the beginning, Toby asks:

"Shall we make the welkin dance, shall we rise the night-owl in a catch that will draw three souls out of one weaver?"

The others are quite willing and they set up a noisy song that brings Olivia's servant to them to bid them be quiet.

"Luxury"

Regis Toomey has been assigned the featured role in "Luxury," Fox production which will have H. B. Warner and Claire Lucs also in the line-up.

RAIL OF BRASS NO BAR FOR PAINTING

When the famous old hotel, the Hoffman House, in New York, was in its prime, the center of attraction was Bouguereau's celebrated painting of "Satyr and the Nymphs" which hung in the barroom. Thousands of visitors to New York each year went to the Hoffman House just to see this masterpiece.

Arthur Hammerstein's musical romance of the gay nineties, "Sweet Adeline," which opens at the Colonial tonight for a three weeks' engagement, has as one of its most important scenes a reproduction of the Hoffman House bar. The producer, recalling the famous painting, instructed his representatives to purchase the original for his production, but a diligent search of many months failed to disclose its whereabouts. The leading galleries of the city, Knoedler's, Metropolitan and Knickerbocker have been unable to locate it. It seems to have disappeared entirely. The record of the sale of the Hoffman House fixtures, etc., show its transfer to a Edmund Stokes, an art agent, now deceased.

Mr. Hammerstein's scenic designers, Messrs. Gates and Morange have delivered an almost perfect reproduction of "Satyr and the Nymphs" and it is now being used in "Sweet Adeline" and will be seen at the Colonial.

GOLDEN FETE PLANNED BY SYMPHONY

The season of the Boston Symphony Orchestra which will open next month, will be the 50th of Boston's famous artistic organization. Sir George Henschel, who was the first conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in 1881-84, has been invited to come to America as the guest of honor for the formal opening of the season on Friday and Saturday, October 10 and 11, when he will lead the orchestra which he has not heard for 47 years. He will likewise remain to listen in the audience to the second pair of concerts at which Dr. Serge Koussevitzky will resume the conductorship, then beginning his seventh season at its head.

A special radio concert will be given on Saturday evening, October 4, in advance of the season's formal opening, and Dr. Serge Koussevitzky will return from Europe and assemble the orchestra for this concert which will be the first special broadcast by the orchestra and the first to be sent across the entire country.

Another feature of the season will be a Bach Festival, consisting of orchestral, choral and chamber music to be given in Symphony Hall next March. A number of scores have been specially written by the foremost living composers for the orchestra's anniversary year, and will be included through the course of the season. These scores and their composers will be announced later.

IRENE RICH IN NEW ROLE AT TWIN HOUSES

For many seasons Irene Rich, who has the leading role in "On Your Back," now playing at the Modern and Beacon, has been known as "The Patrician of the Screen," due to sweetness and dignity in "good woman" roles. For the first time in her career, Irene Rich now deserts her usual roles to portray this colorful character of the mother who gambled away everything, including the love of her son, for the sake of power and riches. She demonstrates a new found faculty which is keen and brilliant.

On the same program is "Crazy That Way," with Joan Bennett, Kenneth MacKenna, Jason Robards and Regis Toomey. It is a story of a girl loved by many men and loving none until she learned that she was really in love with the one man who cared little for her but was attentive to another charmer.

STARS SIGN UP AGAIN

Ruth Chatterton, Charles "Buddy" Rogers and Clara Bow have just signed new contracts with Paramount, according to a message received by the Metropolitan. Word comes from the Paramount studios in Hollywood that Miss Chatterton will appear next in "The Right to Love." Rogers' next offering will be "Along Came Youth." The next vehicle for Clara Bow will be "Her Wedding Night."

Wonder How Jonah Felt?

68-TON WHALE EXHIBITED IN HUB

One of the links between the New England of 1630 and the present day arrived in Boston late yesterday to take its place one of the biggest attractions of the Tercentenary Week. It is "Aimee," the gigantic whale which was captured off the Catalina Islands about seven months ago and is now being sent around to the principal cities of the country as an educational exhibit by the Pacific Whaling Co.

The exhibit is "anchored" on the B. & A. tracks back of Mechanics Building.

Capt. Augustus Folger, who is in charge of the captive whale exhibit, originally comes from New Bedford, and his family was in the New England whaling trade for many generations.

Capt. Folger will deliver a series of lectures on "Jonah and the Whale" at various civic organizations and in public school auditoriums and will also give a special radio talk over Station WLEX during one of the Boston Evening American periods.

The whale being exhibited here is one of the largest ever killed in American waters. It measures 55 feet from bow to stern, and weighs 68 tons. It is transported on a specially built car, with a promenade on each side, where visitors can inspect the animal in its plate glass mausoleum.

Peggy Prevost Goes to Tiffany

Peggy Prevost, former actress and sister of Marie Prevost, under contract to M-G-M for the past two years as a specialist in net trimming, has been secured by Tiffany to work under George Sawley, chief of the property department. She will function as an expert in putting on the well-known "feminine touch" in furnishings, details of design and other features of scenes.

Dorothy Sebastian in "The Utah Kid"

Dorothy Sebastian, whose recent screen appearance in "Our Blushing Brides" has added another success to her long list of personal triumphs, has been chosen to play opposite Rex Lease in the latter's first western starring vehicle, "The Utah Kid."

Carol Lombard, who scored in "The Best People," has been given a featured player contract by Paramount.

Golden Voice Gets $2000

FOR SINGING SWEETER and displaying more dramatic ability than 42 other contestants, Miss Healey won two scholarships, valued at $1000 each, at the Chicago Music College.

Golden-Voiced Miss Healey Wins $2000 for Singing

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 15—Manchester's girl with the golden voice, Marie Healey, 20, is back from Chicago with two scholarships valued at $1000 each.

Miss Healey's high coloratura voice won for her the first prize in singing at the Chicago Music College and her dramatic ability won her first prize in the theatrical competition for the opera stars of the future. She was one of 42 contestants.

Aiming for grand opera, Miss Healey has been studying voice culture since the age of 13, her present teacher being Frantz Proschowski, Galli-Curci's adviser, who predicts for her a brilliant future, as does Mme. Galli-Curci herself.

She first became nationally prominent when she won the Atwater Kent Foundation radio audition contest in the eastern division and placed fourth in the national.

She has a repertoire of some 300 songs which she sings from memory and her voice has a range of three octaves from "a" below high "c" to "a" above high "c." Her home is at 45 Taylor st.

Negotiations are being made for Miss Healey's first Boston appearance in November at a concert of the Boston Catholic Union in Symphony Hall.

POLISH POLICE BOMB RIOTERS

Warsaw, Sept. 15—Tear gas, rifle fire and hand grenades were used on the streets of the Polish capital today when political opponents of Marshal [illegible] Pilsudski clashed with police and soldiers. One demonstrator was killed and nine wounded, while police and soldiery suffered seven casualties, all wounded.

Boy, 7, Drowned

Chicopee, Sept. 15—Seven-year-old John Bazen was drowned yesterday when he fell into the canal of the Dwight Manufacturing Company, while at play.

CHARGES GIRL STABBED HIM

Worcester, Sept. 15—Police today were investigating the mysterious stabbing of Alfred Ormon, 19, of Scarver st, who is in City Hospital with 18 or 20 wounds in the head, left arm and left eye.

Ormon, who may lose the sight of an eye, said the knifing was done by a girl at a party at the home of Mrs. John J. Trump in Oxford st., but refused to give her name or prefer charges.

He told police the girl called him to the street and wielded the knife.

'JACKSTRAWS' NEW RAGE

The celebrities have taken to gaming.

And what a game!

Ruth Chatterton, Clive Brook, Tom Patricola and Cecil Cunningham started it and now they are addicts. Even Dorothy Arzner, who directed them in "Anybody's Woman," now at the Fenway, is playing it.

It's more than the good old-fashioned indoor sport of "Jackstraws" in which a player endeavors to lift tiny sticks from a pile with a needle without moving the others.

Why Not Wait a While, or Try Changing to Another Girl, Asks Beatrice Fairfax

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will discuss a problem of heart and home at 6:35 p. m., over station WLEX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I read you daily and am very much interested in it. Would you solve a problem for me. I have been in love with a girl for over a half year. She has told me she loves me, but makes me doubt it because she seems to like very much to go with others. I do not like this because I'm afraid she will find some boy that she likes better and then leave me. We go out together every night, but some times when I am not with me, she wants to be with some other boy or boys. She has given me her ring. Does that show her love for me? Should I forget her? It seems we have gone long together I cannot forget her

"TROUBLED M. C."

Dear M. C.: I don't believe the young lady knows her own mind. The fact that she gave her ring might mean only a friendship token. If you gave her a ring, and asked that she consider it an engagement ring, that would alter conditions, and you could object to her having regular dates with other boys. Until she does decide why not just continue as her friend, unless you feel that you want to settle down at once. In that case you can break off and find some other girl.

Conceited Men Never Really Love

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX.

I am in love with a young man who is conceited. I love him but I am not sure if he loves me. I would like to know how I can find out whether he loves me or not and what to do with a conceited man.

My parents are too strict with me and don't believe in having me go out when I prefer it's very much like to go out with the young man that I love. Will you please advise me. I am 17 years of age and am working.

MISS UNFORTUNATE

Dear Miss Unfortunate: A conceited man really never loves anyone but himself, you know. Even if you did manage to get friendly with him and he should ask you to go out with him I'm afraid you'd be no happier than you are right now, because he would think nothing of ignoring your wishes or whims at any time. If he loved you, would be all hot and bothered until he could tell you about it, so there's no use thinking up tests to find out whether or not he loves you.

Ask Father and Mother to Help you

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I would like to know what you think of this short letter:

We are two sisters and live with our mother. One is 18 and I am 20.

The neighbors talk about us because we have a lot of friends that come to the house. We met a few sailors and of course that made them talk more.

Now, Miss Fairfax, don't you think that sailors are just as good as any other fellow?

What makes us mad is that we never make a date to meet them some place. We always have them come to the house and to meet "mother."

But now on account of the talk she won't let them come up anymore. So please give us an answer. FRENCHY

Dear Frenchy: Your home is the place to invite your friends, and if your own people do not object why should the neighbors have so much to say about? As long as you are careful of your behavior on the streets, and do not "pick up" boys, I see no cause to worry about anything. Your father and mother should defend your good name to the neighbors if it is necessary. They are your protection and defense against the attacks of the world. Ask them how about it?

Our Rhyming Optimist

Poetry

Words are not poetry unless
They stir some thought that
Dear,
And touch with sudden tenderness
Dear, half-forgotten strings
Deep in the mind, then, muted joys
Again give forth their sweets
In spite of all the year's alloys
Of trials and defeats.

Words are not poetry unless
They open vistas new,
And by their melodies express
Dreams which may yet be true;
Soft-syllabled enchantments lie
In lovely lines that hold
The promise and the mystery

Use a Fork With the Sherbet, But Have a Spoon Handy

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN.

1—In what manner does one eat crackers with soup? By breaking them into the soup in small portions or by eating the cracker as one would an ordinary biscuit?

2—When eating a charlotte russe should the paper cup be removed from the cake before eating, or should it be eaten from the cup with a fork?

3—When an ice is served with a meat course, when and how should it be eaten? With a spoon or fork. M. D.

1—It is not good form to break crackers and put them into soup, or to put small crackers into soup. The crackers should be eaten separately from the soup, as you say—as one would an ordinary biscuit.

2—Usually, I think, it is easier to take the paper container from the charlotte russe and eat the cake as we would any other. With the best service, the waiter or waitress lifts the russe from the paper cup and puts it on the plate without the cup. The paper cup isn't, I think, a very attractive addition to the cake!

A Reimbursement Advisable

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN:

1—When leaving church recently I had a week spell and happened to meet a young man with whom I had just become acquainted. He ordered a taxi, paid the fare, but left the money with me. As I know he has no much money, should I reimburse him for the taxi fare?

2—We have several managers in our office, but the head one has just returned from a six months' business trip. Is it necessary for the office girls to go into his office to say a few words on his return as he is very busy for wait until business brings us in, which may be in a week? VERA.

1—Yes. Write a note of thanks and appreciation to the young man for his kindness, and send your check for the amount of the taxi fare.

2—They should wait until occasion offers in an appropriate time to greet him. He would probably not wish to take the time to greet these colleagues, however well-meaning they are.

A Gracious Letter

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I have recently learned of the illness of my ex-fiance's baby. Would a letter expressing my deep regret and hopes for a speedy recovery to the baby's mother, with whom I was quite friendly, be in good order?

2 May I further trouble you for an outline of such a letter?

REA'ER.

1. Yes, this would be a kind and gracious thing to do.

2. Write a short note telling of your sorrow to hear of the illness of the child, of your hopes for her quick recovery, and then perhaps chat a bit of things of which you both know or have done when you saw more of this friend. The note need not be long, but should bear the stamp of sincerity and friendliness.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

What's in Fashion?

Paris and American Favorites

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

"—one of Paton's new tunic dresses."

WHAT ARE the Paris dress makers showing?

That's a question that certainly interests thousands of American women who are right now deciding on new fall costumes.

We can answer it for you. Because our reporters in Paris have been busy for weeks inspecting silhouettes, skirt lengths, sleeves, necklines, waistlines . . . and all the other details that go to make up a costume—just as fast as they've been shown by the important Paris designers.

First . . . that Paris designers, like American designers, insist on individuality. But . . . a wearable individuality, not eccentric individuality.

An Empire silhouette, for instance, is no longer just a copy of the old Empire silhouette. Because, though individual, it is hard for many figures to wear.

But the new Empire silhouette has been modified and made wearable for modern figures. As has been proved in the fact that as hundreds of American designers are doing it.

Second . . . that Paris reports show that the Parisian silhouette for fall is one of long, graceful lines with an indicated normal waistline. And that's the favored American silhouette, as you know.

Third . . . that a Paris costume must have interesting details. And that, too, is an outstanding mark of new fall modes in America.

What are some of these details? Are they the same on both sides of the ocean? Let's see . . .

If you've been looking at fall coats you've noticed that most of them feature a silhouette with a wide wrap-over, and very often these widely wrapped coats are belted, aren't they?

That wrapped belted coat was a favorite model in the recent showings of Vionnet (who originally designed it), Lelong, Lanvin, Paquin and Regny.

What's one of the most in fashion new fall coats in America? Yes—the tunic dress. With either long or short tunic.

Tunics and peplums (and the peplum, you know, is really a short tunic) were featured by Pateau, Chanel, Martial et Armand, Lanvin, Augustabernard and other dressmakers just as well known.

The sketch shows one of Patou's new tunic dresses. Typical of just the sort of tunic dresses you're seeing in this country right now. You're still noticing plenty of bolero here, aren't you? You'll still see them in Paris, too. At Lanvin, Chanel's, Schiaparelli's, Chantal's—and on all the smart Parisiennes who wear costumes made by these designers.

"What's in Fashion?" has already told you that Persian lamb would be one of the most-in-fashion furs one coats this winter. And if you've been looking at coats, you know this is so.

They're still using lingerie collars and cuffs in Paris . . . as well as in America. They're becoming fashion and designers like Patou, Chanel, Augustabernard and Premet are taking full advantage of that fact.

Flounces and tiers are still a favorite evening fashion in Paris. Button trimming on coats and dresses are popular. Draped collars —those flattering soft effects about the neckline—were featured everywhere.

There's a new fashion in this country—one you'll see more of as the weeks go by. Called by Paris an important fashion in Paris. That's the hip-length fur jacket.

Paquin, Vionnet, Lelong, Premet, Regny and Redfern showed most interesting models. So did other of the leading designers.

Black is the leading fall color in Paris—just as it is all over this country. Greens and browns are important, too—just as they are here.

In fact, study of Paris reports and American reports proves conclusively that the fashions that are outstanding are outstanding in Paris and America alike.

DOUBLING FOR LOVE

Betsy Gives Judy a Jolt That Opens Her Eyes to Her Own Lack of a Broader Mind

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER 46

DREARINESS settled on Judy. Everything had been so glamorous so exactly the way she once had dreamed life might be. Plain Iit ile romantic school ma'm who had been admired and courted and made much of.

And now Kit Camp thought only of Betsy Rowe. Oh, not that she cared! Let him do as he liked. Still . . .

And the many strange things that had happened had taken precedence thing from her friendship with Tris. He wanted to marry her . . . Well . . . Oh, life was a jumble!

She kept asking herself, 'Do I love him? So jaunty, so dashing—but that last is not enough. Just that wouldn't be enough.

She had such plans; such a vision of a future. Did she want to give about Tris to give it all up for him?

That future which was to have been so glorious seemed rather dim and far away now. She had begun to believe that what Peggy always said might be true—that a career and love don't go as a team. She had had a taste of romance and the radiance of this had routed the long, monotonous days.

She knew now what they had tried to tell her yesterday. Something about Tris. They were free. Like Tris. Wind beaten, storm tossed. Tris was like the gulls, tossed by fortune, blown about by every vague whim . . . He wished to be this way . . .

"I think the gulls are very lonesome, Tris."

"Silly, they have each other."

She gave him a little shaken smile.

"I'm going somewhere by myself, Tris. I've got to think."

He bent down and kissed her quickly.

When she glanced backward he was leaning on the rail, watching the gulls that followed the ship.

She met Judy Camp and Betsy Kit Camp should have been asleep, yet here he was, frolicking in the rain with Betsy. He never had missed his sleep on her account, Judy reflected.

crazy things. Like to wring your neck I would, indeed!"

"Oh, hush up, Jul!" They were making their way to Judy's cabin not to stealthily for the ship was beginning to pitch a little. Betsy surveyed Judy's flushed angry face, shrugged with supreme unconcern

"Come, down off the pedestal, darling. The man's goody about you, and you know it! So why act like Queen Victoria's fairhaired child?"

"If that's all you've got to say I'll go along."

But Betsy made Judy sit down and when she had collected a nail file from the floor, a buffer from the soap dish and polish from a half eaten box of candy and had perched herself in the middle of the berth she began to talk, as she said, in a plain way.

"You've always had a grouch on life, dearie. Lord knows why. You've got looks and brains and a sense to act the way you do. Never give any man a break. The way you have treated Roy Varman was a crime."

Betsy Tells Her

"Roy Varman! Little insect." Oh, I don't know. You were sore because they gave him the job you wanted but that wasn't his fault. He's going to land at the top some day, see if he doesn't. He never could see anyone when you were around and you always acted as if he was dust under your feet."

In stunned amazement Judy saw that Betsy's eyes were filled with tears.

"You, Betsy?" she asked. "Why, I had no idea—oh, I am so sorry—"

"Well . . . You might do one thing or the other, Jul. You're so darn self-absorbed."

"I guess I have been. Yes—I've been that all right . . ."

"I went out with him once or twice when you wouldn't. And then you dangled him some more. I s'pose you think I'm a scatter brain. There's a few things I'm solid on though and Roy is one. I've always been solid for him."

Judy got up and kissed the pert little woe-begone face

"I'll never have to worry about me that way again, Betsy dear. And I hope you'll be happy together. If—"

"No 'if' in this at all. You wait. And p—" Betsy's face was very earnest, very hopeful all at once. "I meant what I said. About Sparks. He is wild over you."

"Really dear it doesn't make the slightest difference to me." Judy repeated this. "Not the slightest difference!"

And she knew that she lied.

A Kiss Held Up

They saw her coming and Betsy caught his hand and they raced toward her along the deck, blithe careFree

"Was looking for you, Judy," Betsy squealed, "Got a million things to talk over, but you're so darn exclusive. Well," she shrilled at Kit Camp, "I'm on my way. What you going to do about it?"

He looked from Judy to Betsy, laughing all the while, hands in his pockets, and legs bent to meet the swaying of the ship. "What do you want me to do, little one?"

Betsy went very close to him, grinned up into his face. "Parting calls for a kiss, at least. Maybe two. Well?"

The glints came into his eyes, but he did not lower his head. "This one doesn't. What do you think of that?"

"What would I think?" A little edge to Betsy's voice as her glance winged to Judy. "I'm the wrong girl, that's what I think. You have a try at Sir Snooty, Jo. Go on, see what happens."

Judy met Kit's amused regard and her cheeks flamed. She began to pull Betsy away. "Of all the idiotic feather-heads! I suppose you think you're smart, saying wild,

Beauty Box

-:- By HELEN FOLLETT

Be a Rainy-daisy. When showers descend get into the old mackerel and tramp through the puddles. The complexion thrives on moist air. English women are renowned for their beautiful complexions; they live in a country where the air is cold and foggy. If the lazy little dear refuses to be a bad-weather walker, she must apply to her complexion either ice or cold compresses. The time for them is directly after the warm sudsy facial tubbing. A cold shower leaves their skin the best bath. It is the reaction of the blood streams that does pick-up work.

No woman can afford to lose her temper. Doesn't get her anything, except mean lines in her face, which are difficult to erase even in the early stages. Unpleasant emotions leave their marks. They put accordion-pleats between the eyes, and give a machine-gun expression to the mouth, destroy the firmness and elasticity of facial tissues. Dead loss.

The padded back, the back showing rolls of flesh that hump up over the shoulders, can be slimmed down and leveled by exercises that send the arms about in their sockets. Swinging Indian clubs is a perfect means of correcting this trouble. Swing the arms in circles, first one and then the other. Extend them straight out from the sides and click the fists together over the head. Stand erect; good posture is important.

No need of being afraid of shampooing the hair frequently if soap is rinsed away. Begin by spraying the hair with tepid water; give alternate sudsings and rinsings until the hair feels silky. Never comb or brush the glorious crown until it is thoroughly dry. Friction the scalp.

Love, as Home Brew, Is Our Own Brand

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"WHAT IS LOVE?" she asks. And expects me to supply a reliable list of symptoms.

It can be done. Love has a definite vibration like measles, eye or hives . . . although its sufferers often act as if they had all three. Love has no set reactions . . . no regular course. It varies with each human being. It takes its quality and dimensions from each different character.

Elsie Robinson

LOVE IS WHAT WE MAKE IT

For love isn't something apart from us . . . it isn't something that happens TO us. It is generally supposed. It is something that happens IN us, something that we build within ourselves, out of our dreams and our hungers. Then when the time is ripe, hang it on the other fellow!

That, of course, isn't the way love is supposed to happen. We have woven so many romantic theories about love, we have been so dazed by its ecstasies and despairs that we have entirely obscured the truth. But the truth is that love is home brew. We are not the helpless victims of a little pink god. We make our own love patterns, we select our own lovers on the sealed and secret laboratories of our own spirits.

And our love patterns and selections to fit our own needs. Each heart seeks its own expression and compensation for its loneliness, its vanity, its fear, its dream of beauty. Out of that need we build our portrait of the Ideal Companion. Then, some day we find, or think we have found, the living answer to our dream. And we promptly proceed to load our desire and delight on that other mortal . . . who probably has been lodged under the stairs.

That's how love comes. Not like an epidemic—or a thunderbolt over which we have no control. But as the inevitable result of our own hidden processes.

And our love, when we finally fall in it, is as individual as the rest of our natures. Which means that there are as many kinds of love as there are kinds of men. When you say [illegible] you mean [illegible] you [illegible] you [illegible] you mean [illegible] the same word or symbol.

What is love? It is [illegible] ANSWER TO OURSELVES. It is partly, of course, a [illegible] answer . . . but it is also a much greater extension of mind and spiritual answer. It is the revival of the basic instinct of fulfilment and completion.

How great is love? As great as you are. If in the other departments of your life, you are intelligent and good natured generous, fair, orderly useful than your love will reflect all these qualities. But if you're silly and selfish and sour, your love will be as mean and stunted as the rest of your nature.

Expect no miracles of love. LIKE WATER IT CAN RISE NO HIGHER THAN ITS SOURCE. YOU ARE THE SOURCE OF YOUR LOVE.

Once-Overs

YOU WISH that people might understand you

You know that your reputation has suffered due to certain actions of yours which you did not consider in the light of any of the violations of society.

You just want to be different.

The regular routine of orderly society palls on you.

You want folks to think you independent in thought and action.

You are not averse to crossing as you call it, "a little mild sensation."

The boundaries you set for yourself are limited in dimension to a wide for the one who cares for the good opinion of society.

Your motives for this trait are they create a false and bad impression as you rarely air your plans.

But you feel that if people really knew you well enough they would not censure you.

You forget that your actions may be the very reason why many persons do not wish to know you well or otherwise.

You must avoid the appearance of evil if you would not be misjudged.

No matter what you think of yourself, it is the side you present to others that counts in the good or bad opinion of those with whom you would like to be popular.

The Marry-Go-Round

Man Ought to Know When to Take the First Kiss; Woman Must Know When to Take the Last

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE AVERAGE man understands as little about how his wife's mind works as he understands how or why the radio or wireless telegraphy works.

Up to 30, a man spends his life in doing rash or foolish things, from 30 to 50 in trying to UNDO them—and the rest of his life, bragging about them.

All a woman need know in order to keep up a fluent conversation with the average man is enough to ask a few appropriate questions at the start, and to burst into admiring applause at the finish.

After a long drawn out summer love-affair, it is almost as hard for two people to look "heart-broken" at parting as it is for a seasoned actor to look "heart-broken" at getting his notice.

Why is it that, when you tell a man that a girl is "sensible," he always visualizes her as the kind who would keep her husband's old love-letters, his insurance policy and her divorce-decree all in the same strong box?

The busiest brand of ingratitude is that of the woman who borrows your vanity-case, in order to doll up and make herself more attractive to your husband.

For a man, finesse in love, consists in knowing the perfect moment to take the first kiss; for a woman, in knowing when the psychological moment has arrived for the last kiss.

Now that pajamas have gone feminine, wonder if men will go back in the roomy old lullaby-shirt in which they could kick around without strangling themselves?

For some men, the only drawback to heaven, as it is pictured, is that there are no bunkers or hazards there, and it may lack a lot of excitement

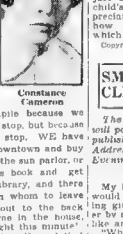
We Nag Our Children, But If Anyone Nags Us —!

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

A SUCCESSFUL teacher said the other day: "There is one time when I keep my mouth shut, and that is whenever I'm tempted to say to a child 'Oh, DO HURRY.'

It IS a temptation many times to prod the little fellows but I'll But when we stop to figure out why they need prodding the cause seems to be very close to US.

To begin with we don't ask the child to stop digging in his sandpile because we think he wants to stop, but because WE want him to stop. WE have to dash downtown and buy those curtains for the sun parlor, or to return daddy's book and get others from the library, and there being no one with whom to leave Junior NOW—right this minute!



Constance Cameron

How does it affect the child? Well, how does it affect you, when with perhaps a cake half mixed, your husband phones you and says, "I'll be in in fifteen minutes. Get ready and skip over to Punktown with me. Hurry. I've got to see a man at 4 o'clock." Frantically you cover the mixture, knocking a pan off the table in the process, hastily you wash off powder or change your dress and slap on a hat and jolt your husband when he "toots" out from all hot and dishevelled and cross quite probably, no matter how much you may enjoy the ride eventually.

You may even refuse to accompany him. But your child cannot refuse to accompany you. No matter how conscientiously he is shaping and taking matter how earnestly he is pretending to run a bakery he gets jerked away in the middle of the interesting project to suit YOUR whims.

It is an easy thing to remedy, I accept, of course, in cases of emergency. Plan ahead a little. Give just a bit more respect to your child's plannings and projects. Appreciate just a little more fully how very serious his activities which we call "play" are to him.

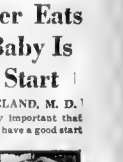
If Mother Eats Right Baby Is Given Start

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

IT IS immensely important that every baby should have a good start in life.

Your baby's life and health will depend largely on nutrition. Not only after birth but long before the child is born. The child's constitution will depend to a large extent upon what the mother eats before the child comes into the world, as well as the nourishment given afterward.



Dr. Copeland

If, before her child's birth, the mother follows a diet of fresh, natural foods her child should be normal and healthy. But if she leaves out of the diet the valuable mineral salts found in fresh vegetables and fruits, then the needs of her body and that of her child will suffer. These foods with plenty of milk daily, will supply the lime needed to preserve her own and to make her baby's teeth and bones.

She should eat plenty of raw and stewed fresh fruits daily as well as plenty of raw and cooked green vegetables. Whole wheat bread, if it agrees with her, should be substituted for white bre d, and milk products for much meat. Such a diet is very essential for the welfare of the expected child.

Although the teeth of an infant are not visible at birth they are embedded in the jaw. They begin to form and harden five months before birth, although the first tooth does not develop until the child is six or eight months old.

It is therefore essential that lime salts be supplied to the unborn child through the mother's diet, and later through the mother's milk in turnip. It is easy to see how important it is that great care should be given to the mother's diet both before and after the child is born.

It has been established beyond a doubt that if every child could be fed on its own mother's milk for the first eight months there would be a tremendous decrease in the deathrate of infants in their first year. There would be a great decrease in rickets and tuberculosis in children.

Artificially-fed babies, during the winter months at least, should have from one-half to one teaspoonful of cod liver oil three times a day in order to supply vitamin D, that element that prevents rickets. In summer, if the baby is exposed to sunlight for a few hours each day, the cod liver oil may be discontinued.

It is also most important that the bottle-fed baby should have from one to two tablespoonfuls of orange juice or tomato juice every day to supply vitamin C, the scurvy-preventing vitamin. Lack of this vitamin is a common source of diseases of the teeth and badly formed teeth

BUSINESS BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN INDUSTRY

Business and Shares Record Sunshine Rays

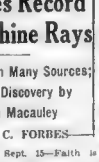
——By B. C. FORBES

New York, Sept. 15—Faith is spreading that the turn has come both in business and in the security markets.

Some still question whether recovery will hold. They fear that it may prove only the customary seasonal spurt in activity.

On the whole, however, confidence is gaining ground.

Is the bear market in stocks over? A. W. Wetsel, well-known authority, answered me thus:



B. C. Forbes

"Bear markets have peculiar and unmistakable ways of signaling their completion. According to all the rules—fundamental and technical factors—the bear market starting in 1929 is over. Or, rather, should I say the 'second phase' of this bear market. The first phase ended last November, scarcely more than two months after the extreme high point was reached by unlisted averages. When the average of ALL listed stocks is examined it is found that the market turned down in April of 1929, actually ahead of the turn in business activity, a fact generally overlooked.

"The second phase of the bear market started last April and ended—so far as the extreme low point of market averages is concerned—late in June. Here we have the second or latest phase consuming as much 'time' as the first, with the decline in average prices amounting to less than half and volume of sales greatly reduced.

"Major bear markets never are completed under conditions prevailing but full. They are usually finished under circumstances similar to those prevailing in recent months.

"Admittedly business has been bad, yet stock prices have lost no ground in nearly three months—definite evidence, I believe, that stock prices have discounted everything publicly known, or likely to take place before business definitely turns. It is safe to say that when earnings are better and the trend of dividends turns up, stocks will be selling very much higher than today. There are now selling ex-prospects, ex-profits and in many cases ex-dividend. One example: It is estimated that General Motors will earn approximately $5 per share in 1930. When it reports a rate of $3 or even $4, we shall be more evident to close observers that earnings are improving, so will not be able to buy its stock at 46.

"Buying stocks is purely a matter of investing in the future, not in the past. Competition will be greater in purchasing stocks after it becomes evident to all that American industries have resumed their progress."

Doesn't that reasoning strike you as logical?

President Alvan Macauley of Packard has made a discovery which should interest the whole business world.

"Most encouraging for future business," he says, "is the result of a research just conducted among Packard owners who bought their cars four years ago. In normal times they would be turning them in on newer models this year; but forty per cent have told us that because of general conditions they will keep their cars another year or until times are better.

"This very decision to do so is almost a definite promise that 40 per cent of recent buyers we could normally expect this year now becomes business that is accumulating and will come to us later."

Postponed replenishing is bound to come before long in most lines of business. We can't do without forever.

"Our sales for the first 10 days of this month are 132 per cent ahead of a year ago."

Chester H. Braselton, radio tube manufacturer, Newark, N. J. states:

"Production department employes now total around 800, as compared with 180 the middle of July and 65 some months ago. This increase in employment and in production is necessitated by actual orders."

W. T. Morris, vice-president of the American Chain Co., returning with A. P. Van Schaick, general manager of sales, from a nation-wide business tour, comments thus on the company's inauguration of a vigorous institution drive:

"We have every reason to feel optimistic over the future. Most of our customers reported business ahead of 1929 and equal to or better than their five-year averages. We are already beginning to feel the good effects of our institutional advertising campaign. This is sure to attract more attention and more careful reading than if it came out in the midst of a flood of advertising."

O. C. Hoffman, president, Continental Can Co.:

Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machines returning from Europe yesterday, said:

"Our European business is showing very satisfactory improvement this year and after visiting seven foreign countries and interviewing representatives from 19 countries, I am satisfied that general European business is improving."

H. Hobart Porter, president of American Water Works & Electric Co., told me yesterday:

"It is significant that certain large industries are requesting some of our water plants to be prepared to supply double their present demand."

The fatalist old saying that "no two cars can collide" might well be cited to those who expect Massachusetts automobile registration to show monthly increases indefinitely as compared with the like period of the previous year with the previous months of the same year. July registration figures just issued, might well have been expected to show decline if it were taken into consideration that total registration for the eight months ended July 31 showed a slight increase over a year ago, amounting to 792,468 passenger and 102,937 commercial cars, compared with 784,098, and 101,726 respectively in the like period of 1929.

Motor tourist travel figures, as they come to hand, afford no sign of a decline in the public's purchasing power. We have just received the latest statistics from Fredericton, N. B., for example, which show that motor tourist travel to that province has been 50 per cent greater than it was in 1929. The normal increase in recent past years has been only 25 per cent.

American Products Dividend Passed

Cincinnati, Sept. 15—American Products Co. passed the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on common due at this time. Directors said:

"To conserve assets to build a reserve to provide for possible contingencies in the future, it seems that to adopt an ultra-conservative policy in this respect is for the best interest of the stockholders and the company."

American Zinc Lead & Smelting Co.

The directors have today declared a dividend of $1.50 per share on the preferred capital stock payable October 1, 1930, to preferred stockholders at record at the close of business September 25, 1930.

F. W. BATCHELDER, Treasurer.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

Retail trade takes the leadership in business betterment, and it is in most cases showing a little better than the usual seasonal improvement caused by buying incidental to the return of many from their summer homes and the outfitting of children for the new school year.

The index to be watched most in Wall Street during the coming weeks is that of the steel industry, once that cheerful, to put it mildly, at this time. This outlook, however, is declared by the optimists to be good for a 50 per cent revival in operations at least, in the next five or six weeks. They declare that, if this takes place, U. S. Steel must be considered dirt cheap today, with the major independents in a position to trail along on any sharp rise.

New Foreign Loans Sought in U. S.

Wall Street investment houses are being besieged with applications for new loans from foreign governments and corporations. With the bond market at a virtual standstill in London, foreign buyers are turning to the United States for accommodation. It is estimated foreign borrowers are in debt some $600,000,000 to $700,000,000 to American banks in short term advances or credits.

Industrial Power Supplied Increases

Industrial power supplied by Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co. of Baltimore (except that supplied to Bethlehem Steel Co. and Baltimore Copper Smelting & Rolling Co.) totaled 37,566,559 k. w. h. in July, against 37,227,971 in July, 1929, an increase of 0.96 per cent. Industrial power sales in the first seven months totaled 269,538,725 k. w. h. against 253,534,138 k. w. h. in the 1929 period, a gain of 6.31 per cent.

McLellan Stores' Sales Increased

McLellan Stores Co. sales have shown up very well. For the eight months ended Aug 31 volume amounted to $12,737,213 against $12,928,346 for the like period of last year. This gain of over six per cent reflects business turned in by new stores. On an old store basis August was the only month this year to show sales behind last year—and this decline was slight. Last year, however, the company conducted its anniversary sale in August while this year it will be held late in September. Sales of knit goods and other dry goods have been the leaders this year.

Aroostook Profits to Show a Gain

It is estimated Bangor & Aroostook will report net for 1930 of around $1,750,000, or $10.62 a share on 141,792 shares of common now outstanding, after allowing for preferred dividend requirements. This will compare with $8.46 in 1929 on 136,434 shares outstanding at close of last year, and $9.94 a share on 106,560 shares for 1928. Bangor included back mail pay in profit and loss account last year, and not in income account as did most roads.

Union Bag Is at New High

Union Bag & Paper has been creeping ahead without attracting attention. The issue has entered new high territory for the year. Good accumulation took place in the stock prior to the June reaction, and although the stock receded at that time, the important buyers maintained their position. Several months ago the company sold its power site at Hudson Falls to the Niagara Hudson Power Co., which gave the company cash to operate its regular line of business. The power site, while valuable, had been fully developed and taxes and other charges were substantial.

American Can Is Favorite

American Can has become a favorite among the traders. Some of those who have often been active in Steel common recently have transferred part of their activities to American Can. The stock is still viewed as one of the logical leaders in any good advance. A moderate amount of outside buying has been coming into the issue.

Active Pool in Vanadium

An active pool is operating in Vanadium. The group has been working its favorite higher at every opportunity. During periods of profit-taking and liquidation, or bear pressure against the list, evidence of stock support has appeared in the issue. Because of its impressive action a speculative following has been attracted the last few days. As heretofore, the strength in the stock has been accompanied by discussions of the titanium prospects of the company.

Scale Support in Bethlehem Steel

Considerable comment is being made on the resistance which has been shown in Bethlehem Steel in recent sessions. Reactions have declined on support in the issue. Only a short time ago the stock was one of the bear targets. Probably the issue is reflecting a stronger technical position because of short interest. Covering has been a factor when recessions have occurred, because the bears have been buying the stock. Reports have been heard of a new strong group being formed in the issue, but they lack confirmation.

Earning Reports Comparisons Made

	Since Additions	July 1 Saturday
Increased earnings	211	3
Decreased earnings	473	4
Unchanged dividends	1032	14
Increased dividends	48
Decreased dividends	85	4

Dining Cars Run at Loss

In efforts to retain passenger traffic, which represented 20 per cent of gross in 1920 and registered a drop of over 30 per cent in 1929 the railroads have been spending large sums for more luxurious equipment and improved service, but on most lines are operating dining car service at a loss. One of the major carriers aggressively solicits all business reporting an average loss per meal served in June (latest figures available) of 34 cents. There is considerable extra expense involved because of necessity of having a wide variety of foodstuffs and carrying more food than is consumed.

Money Rates and Stock Speculation

Last year, when stocks were reaching peak prices, many argued that a fall in money rates would check speculation, as low money would soon stop the flow of funds to Wall Street. Money has been going down consistently, and so have loans for others. The figure is now $759,000,000, against $2,616,000 a year ago.

PRICES MOVE LOWER IN BOSTON

Prices worked to lower levels in dull trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. A definite trend was lacking in the forenoon but the tendency was to follow the action of the "Big Board" later in the day. Gillette rallied 2 points from its low for the day to show a gain of over a point.

Herman Nelson, an inactive issue, sold off 6½ points. Stone & Webster dropped over a point. Investment trust issues were steady. Employers Group lost a minor gain made at the opening. United Founders eased ¼.

American Telephone and New Haven each sold around 2 points lower. First National Stores and General Electric each sold off around a point. Hathaway B recovered an early loss of a point. Quincy Mining eased ⅛ and Kreuger & Toll lowered a like amount.

Copper Range Co. directors took no action on quarterly dividend due at this time. Three months ago a 25 cent dividend was declared prior to which the stock had been on a $2 annual dividend basis.

Ernest N. Hood, treasurer of Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co., says:

"The resolution adopted by the executive committee of the Cotton Textile Institute advising the elimination of night work by women and minors is an action most significant and far-reaching. This resolution now goes to the full board of directors of the Institute, but since it is so obviously in line with the trend of the times, it will be seriously considered by the directors and seems likely to receive their approval.

"Should this step be taken, and with the Institute aggressively behind the movement, it will undoubtedly mark the beginning of the end of night work by women and minors in the textile industry of the country.

"It is possible to operate night shifts of men only, but not particularly practical nor economical, and the general use of such a shift will hardly be resorted to except in times when additional production is urgently needed."

Rubber Is Steady

New York, Sept. 15—Rubber futures today were steady: September, 7.50; December, 8.10; March, 8.50. New contracts: December, 8.05; March, 8.50.

Like all other business activities, the Panama Canal has felt the force of the depression; but unlike most industries—if a canal can be called an industry—it has not suffered so severely as to bring down dire thoughts from statisticians.

In a recent report on American cargo carried through the canal during April, May, June, and July, it was evident that the decrease from the same period in 1929 was consistent, but not drastic.

The figures for the Panama Canal business loom up favorably when compared with those of railroad carloadings. Over the four months stretch railroad loadings averaged approximately 18 per cent under the 1929 figures, while the Canal traffic averaged only 9 per cent under the preceding year. The reason for this is a simple law of human nature.

Pay Increases in Manitoba Effected

Washington, Sept. 15—Increases for six classifications of workers are provided for in the fair wage schedule adopted by the Manitoba Provincial Government to be effective in 1930 on public construction in Winnipeg and the immediate neighborhood, according to Assistant Trade Commissioner Herbert W. Barrett, Winnipeg.

The new hourly rates, for the most part, conform with agreements made with the trade unions, and are as follows:

Plasterers	$1.45	$1.35
Plumbers	1.20	1.20
Steamfitters	1.25	1.20

50 Chain Stores Are Earning Ahead of Profits in 1929

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—Fifty chain store companies reporting sales for August brought the total for the first eight months this year to $2,577,353,306, an increase of 2.19 per cent over $2,521,873,930 for the corresponding period last year, a compilation by Merrill, Lynch & Co. shows.

Marine Insurance in Year $60,442,000

Washington, Sept. 15—Ship owners and operators in the United States paid $60,442,000 insurance on ocean-going vessels and cargoes in 1929, 37 per cent on the hulls and the remainder on cargoes, the Shipping Board reported today.

Of the entire sum $8,696,000 was paid out by insurance companies disturbing part of their risk among foreign concerns.

American insurance companies took in $43,315,000 in total premiums and the remainder of the entire sum paid for insurance—$17,127,000—was taken in by foreign companies doing business in the country.

Steel Operations Remain Unchanged

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—Steel operations in the Youngstown district remain unchanged this week at 57 per cent of rated capacity, Dow, Jones & Co. reports.

CURB MARKET HAS FURTHER LETDOWN

New York, Sept. 15—The curb market sustained a further letdown today, and under insistent selling pressure the main body of stocks were forced sharply lower. Except for intermediate rallies of short duration, the trend ruled toward reaction throughout the entire session.

Duke Power was an outstanding feature in a generally soft utility group, moving up 3¾ points.

Eastern States Power B also moved counter to the general downturn, in which issues of the calibre of Electric Bond & Share, American Gas & Electric, American Superpower, Middle West Utilities, Niagara Hudson Power, United Gas new and United Light & Power declined from 1 to 2 points.

Oils tended lower, with declines of a point and more sustained in Cosden, Gulf, Humble and Vacuum. Goldman Sachs was a weak spot in the investment trust list, sagging 1¼ points.

Among the air pockets uncovered in the miscellaneous group, a number of which slumped to new low ground for the year, were Aviation Corporation, Aluminum Company, Deere and Technicolor.

Grains Are Lower in Chicago Market

Chicago, Sept. 15—After maintaining a firme undertone in early trading today grains met with heavy hedging pressure and unloading by longs which forced prices below the previous finish. Wheat deliveries were at new lows on the crop. May oats and May rye also scored new lows for the season. Closing prices for wheat were off ⅝ to ¾c, corn ½ to 1c and rye 1¼ to 2¼c. September oats closed ⅛c higher on short covering.

Insurance Figures Show a New Gain

New York, Sept. 15 (AP)—The total of life insurance purchases for the first eight months this year was 0.3 of one per cent above the cumulative total for the like period of 1929, the report of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents of the United States Department of Commerce shows. The total for the first eight months was $8,678,501,000 against $8,651,501,000 in the like period last year.

This is one of a series of advertisements pointing out in a concrete way the expenditures being made by the properties of the New England Gas and Electric Association to provide facilities for needed service on a scale which will attract new industries and help keep established industries in operation.

$632,000 of the total for improvement represents local expenditures for labor and materials

OVERHEAD—that Simon Legree of industry which drives costs up and profits down, can be reduced in Cambridge. There is no need of industries located here being saddled with the expense of operating and maintaining private electric generating plants. There is no need of their being handicapped with inadequate electric power in an attempt to lower production costs.

Under supervision of the Associated Gas and Electric System group management organizations, and subject to the control of the Board of Directors of the operating companies, $1,500,000 is now being spent on new equipment that will give the Cambridge power station new boiler and generator units of the most modern design and efficiency. Industrial plants connecting with the Cambridge Electric Light Company will be assured ample power at all times.

New England is well equipped in the factors that make industry prosperous. Its location regarding markets, its ample skilled labor and transportation facilities are not surpassed anywhere in the country. In the area served by the New England Gas and Electric Association, ample power at reasonable cost is an added incentive to new industries to locate here.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Today's Complete Prices and Dividends

PRICES MOVE DOWNWARD IN WALL STREET TRADING

New York, Sept. 15—Prices were moving downward most of the session in today's Wall St. trading. The bears took fresh flings at the stock market, but ran into the same obstacle their professional opponents have encountered—dullness.

Failure of the Saturday rally to do much more than eliminate that day's early declines, leaving the market lower on the week, encouraged renewed operations by the shorts, who hammered with especial vigor at the utility, steel and merchandising shares.

The result of the German elections, reflected in selling on the Berlin Bourse, also may have contributed to the weakening of speculative sentiment.

DRIFT IS DOWNWARD

Prices drifted lower throughout the day and losses of 2 to 4 points developed in leading stocks. However, offerings became much lighter as quotations scaled off and the market was extremely dull in the late dealings.

U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, American Power & Light, H. H. Macy, Woolworth, General Electric and numerous other favorites lost 2 to 3. Westinghouse Electric lost 4 and Allied Chemical 8.

Occasional rallies were spotty and insecure.

Only a handful of issues moved against the trend, notably Autostrop up 4 and Gillette, up 1, on revival of merger rumors. American Water Works was firm.

The close was weak. Sales approximated 1,650,000 shares.

NEWS IS SCANT

Business news was scant. Reports on the general situation in commerce and industry stressed the seasonal improvement in some lines, calling attention particularly to gains in car loadings and steel production and to signs of stabilization in electric power output as well as many of the commodities.

Some of the commentators, however, said it would be unwise at this time to put much confidence in an upturn of more than seasonal proportions.

Rubber Stocks Show Gain During Month

Dealers stocks of crude rubber held in the Far East on August 31 totaled 42,255 tons, as compared with 39,461 tons on hand July 31, according to cables to the Rubber Exchange of New York yesterday.

Cotton Seat Sold

Arlington Woman Victim of Amnesia

Worcester, Sept. 15—A woman picked up by the police, suffering from amnesia or loss of memory, has been identified as Mrs. Lawrence Moore, 23, of 15 Wyman st., Arlington. She is being kept at the city hospital for further observation.

Mrs. Moore was taken to police headquarters by Patrolman Timothy F. Diggins, when he was attracted by her weeping on Main st.

Lucky Girl

came and he did not mention it she was surprised at her own disappointment. It would have been fun to go to dress up and listen to the music. She thought of reminding him, but hel ooked tired and he had been complaining of pains in his head lately . . . perhaps she had better not. . . .

Towards 10 o'clock he fell asleep in his chair by the library fire and Cathie read and nibbled chocolates, trying not to care.

About midnight, she opened one of the long French windows and stood out on the little balcony that she was chilled. Then she came in and shut the window.

"Dear, dear, how late!" Cathie wakened her sleeping husband, gently.

He said, "I must have dropped off."

And so to bed, but not to sleep.

Insomnia laid grisly fingers on Cathie. It wasn't only the sleeplessness she dreaded. It was the dark, ominous, at night. Sometimes, lying awake in the early morning hours, when the sky was still black, the whole world seemed hushed and brooding, waiting for the dawn, her fears mounted almost to terror.

Afraid of Dark

Creak. Sigh. Tap. Whisper. Whisper. She would lie, tense and listening, while the darkness pressed on her eyeballs and the thud of her heart almost shook the bed. If there were just someone she could call, someone she could talk to.

Marguerite? But that wouldn't be dignified. She couldn't do that. And her husband, worn out after strenuous days at the office, was always weary at night. She couldn't and waken him to tell him she was frightened. It wouldn't be right.

Towards after what seemed an eternity of sleeplessness, she slipped on a dressing gown, and padded down the dim hall to the room. She wasn't going to wake him. She could curl up on the chaise lounge at the foot of their bed, and be comforted just being near him, even if he was asleep.

It cold in the hall. Cheong must have turned off the heat. Maybe she had better go back to her room and get a blanket. She started and then stopped suddenly. . . . There it was again. That creaking. You could hear that someone was coming up the stairs!

Silence again. Absolute silence. Cathie's teeth were clenched as she pressed her cold hands over her thudding heart and waited.

This was nonsense. Grown women, afraid of the dark. What would ma say if she knew? What would pop say?

She snubbed the desire to run. She'd go back quietly and get the blanket and then . . .

"Oh, God! Help me!" The words tore themselves out of her contracted throat.

A little circle of pale light was bobbing steadily up-yard. just above the stairs.

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

You Know What You Don't Want—Vote Against It; Stand by America, Defeat the Reactionary Butler

Republicans Should Nominate Eben S. Draper, a Patriotic American

If you don't want the United States jockeyed into having a league court passing on our immigration laws and other AMERICAN issues—

If you don't want American boys some day summoned to help enforce the order of the league court with an official American judge on it—

If you don't want our foreign-born citizens fighting with each other because a United States judge is taking part in purely FOREIGN quarrels—

Vote against the league court and for a candidate who will vote to keep us OUT of the court. That means to VOTE FOR EBEN S. DRAPER.

Tomorrow the Republicans of Massachusetts have a splendid opportunity to send a ringing, patriotic message to the people of America.

Let it be: "AMERICA FIRST; AMERICA ALWAYS."

The tumult and shouting are over. The issues are clear cut.

William M. Butler is an old-fashioned reactionary. He is too set in his ideas to tackle the serious unemployment and prohibition problems. He is totally lacking in vigor and initiative.

He voted to put the United States into the League Court of the League of Nations. He voted to harness America with foreign political alliances in defiance of the sound advice of all the great American Presidents from Washington to Roosevelt.

He is out of step with the sentiment of the American people, in both their domestic and their foreign policies.

Eben S. Draper is an upstanding young American.

He served his country in the war. He knows from his own experiences that the United States never should be tied by alien bonds that can DRAG THE YOUNG MANHOOD OF AMERICA TO FIGHT THE BATTLES OF FOREIGN NATIONS ON FOREIGN SOIL.

He is aggressively and militantly American. He has the candor to talk plainly to his Massachusetts constituents. HE IS OF THE AMERICA OF TODAY IN ITS DOMESTIC PROBLEMS. HE IS OF THE AMERICA OF WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON IN ITS INTERNATIONAL POLICIES.

The primary and the election contests in the past four years have collected a steadily-mounting and an impressive toll of United States Senators who BETRAYED THE BEST INTERESTS OF THEIR COUNTRY BY VOTING FOR THE LEAGUE COURT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

From Illinois to North Carolina, from Louisiana to Colorado, the result everywhere has been the same when the independence of the United States has been the issue before the people. More than a dozen senators have gone down to defeat on the League Court issue. Mrs. McCormick decisively defeated Deneen in Illinois. Only the other day, Colorado chose for its Republican candidate a man who based his campaign on American independence on the Court issue.

That is why Butler evades it. Just as he has tried to evade prohibition as an issue.

That is why Draper, with respect for the intelligence of the people, discusses both issues with courage and with frankness.

Draper has done his duty.

ELECT DRAPER. DEFEAT BUTLER.

Send to them from the birthplace of Benjamin Franklin and John Hancock and Samuel Adams the proclamation they can receive with patriotic cheers:

"AMERICA FIRST; AMERICA ALWAYS."

Many Reasons Why You Should Vote Tomorrow

Primary Day in Massachusetts

Tomorrow, Tuesday, the people of Massachusetts will decide a very important primary election.

They will select by their votes the men they desire to serve them as United States Senator, as Governor and in the numerous State and county offices.

It is a serious duty. It must be accepted as a patriotic obligation.

This primary election comes at a time when the economic situation is disturbed and when business relations with the competing Nations of the world are acute.

It comes at a time when the revival of employment and the restoration of sound business conditions which can supply steady work and good wages require the careful choice of courageous and constructive leaders.

It comes at a time when the settlement of troublesome problems like prohibition require leaders who are frank, not hypocritical; and when dangerous issues such as the League of Nations and the League Court require independent American statesmen who are neither diluted nor supine.

It is idle and unpatriotic to stay away from the polls and then to criticise the selections made by those citizens who are sufficiently interested in their own public affairs to attend.

Vote tomorrow!

Naturalization Sharks

Preying on Would-Be Citizens

Of all the outrageous rackets yet exposed this fake naturalization mill is perhaps the most contemptible.

In the very corridors of the Federal Building a band of sharks prey upon the cupidity of our immigrant residents who go there to assume the vows of formal citizenship.

They blackjack them for money by deceit and cajolement. They strive to prevail upon them to falsify their naturalization papers. They urge them to swear to testimony which is utterly spurious. They pretend an unholy influence with the naturalization courts and they intimidate or seduce the unwitting immigrant to the belief that his citizenship can be secured only by bribery.

Mr. Schenck and his associates in the office of United States District Attorney Tarr give us the promise they will clean out this cesspool at the Federal Building. They can make up their minds that the public will be watching to see whether their actions are as earnest as their promise.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—Diary of a modern Pepys: Came an amusing note from Frederic Burr Opper, grand old conquistador of the cartoons, and to breakfast with Bellefontaine's pride, Howard Acton and amusing him so recalling days we were cubs together he had a lapse of memory and signed the chit.

For a promenade and talked to Jimmy Elliott and saw a man widely whispered to have pistoled Arnold Rothstein but roaming at large, smiling, debonair! To my task, but the typewriter stuck and I had a high time tinkering with it, treasuring such excuses not to work.

To dinner on the St. Regis roof and among others saw the Grantland Rices, the Keats Speeds, Regina Wallace and a Biddle—the one with the minstrel collar. So driving in the magic gold and cool of the park and home reading aloud to my wife from a racy life of Balzac.

It just gave me a start to recall my memory of New York goes clear back to the days when the Grand Concourse was not torn up.

* * *

More than 100 prominent gentlemen in New York have overcome stammering in various ways. Once a year they hold a dinner at which long and fluent speeches are made. I hear once an impediment is mastered it never troubles again. Some of the most charming people I know stutter.

All of which is reminded that 10 Tom Thumb golf courses a week are still springing up around New York. The heavy play from midnight until daylight has provided philanderers with a dandy excuse, too, the dirty stayouts.

A computation just arriving shows my yearly writing output exceeds 500,000 words and I can yawn just thinking of it. (Smart cracks filed in order received.)

* * *

The Hudson river bridge, the longest single span in the world, nearing completion on upper Riverside, gleams at night with electric warnings for airplanes. You wouldn't think cable stretching could possibly be so executed, but I run up every week for a look. Also to see the batch of cute red heads in the little soft drink stand next door.

One of the road house cabarets along Pelham offers a side-splitting diversion, at least for me. A pair of skaters execute dizzy whirls and aerials. The male skater calls for volunteers from the diners. It is surprising how many respond who are not "plants"—a little "ham" in everybody! He swings them in the air a few moments, suddenly puts them on their feet and skates away. And Leon Erroll in his limpest day never stumbled into such hilarious guttapercha falls.

At the same cabaret the dance floor is reached by arched foot bridges spanning a moat. In the moat are flocks of ducks quacking like everything, and what won't they think up next? It does beat all.

I am on the prospect list of school for writers. Flowery epistolary pleas beseech me to enroll. "We assure you," said a form letter this morning "that after eight months study you can be assured of $50 a week. Contrast your present job and prospects with that." We did and leapt over the desk from the typewriter every whipstitch of a jig.

* * *

The cost of living continues its tumble. Fifth avenue florists are selling two $5 orchids for $8. Imagine how much that will mean in a year!

* * *

Any Size Coat Fits a Moth

By ARTHUR BAER

TODAY OUR national bird is the moth.

We open the old cedar chest and out flies the Gypsy wool weevils who have been banqueting on vests all summer and coughing up the buttons.

Shall we slap that moth any more tenderly because he has our overcoat in his stomach?

The man who puts camphor balls in his pockets in the spring usually finds that by September the moths have become marble champions.

The real object in opening the family clothes vaults at this time is to entomb the straw hat with appropriate ceremonies. The sun has been shining on the old airsalts saucer for three months and it has a tan like a runaway mule. It was a beautiful hunk of streamline hay in June but now it looks like a cold potato.

Yet, some people save everything, including string and chicken feathers. You can pipe bystanders rushing up and grabbing a fender from a week-end collision just to have a souvenir of the happy occasion.

H. G. Wells Writes

Human Grafts, Like Fruit Trees, Often Fail

PREVIOUSLY it had been found that the back-pressure of the sperms thus prevented from escaping will cause the sperm-producing tissue lining the testis-tubules to degenerate.

H. G. Wells

This meant that there was more food and space for the interstitial tissue between the tubules; the interstitial tissue therefore grew, and since it produces the male's sex-hormone, more sex-hormone was accordingly produced.

Steinach tried both methods, and with both he achieved what he had hoped for. The successes were not invariable; grafts do not always take, and the vas must be tied in just the right place if there is to be effective back-pressure.

But they were numerous enough. Old male rats successfully treated in either of these ways threw off their senility. Their appetite improved, their coat took on its old gloss, their weight went up.

Instead of sitting apathetically in one spot, like a decayed old villager on the ale-house bench, they began to display that incessant activity and inquisitiveness so characteristic of adult rat life. Potential mates were no longer treated with indifference. In brief, the aged beast reverted to a condition of normal maturity.

This renewal of vigor lasted up to six months or so, and then old age speared a second time. The twice-senile animal could be again rejuvenated. Indeed, one rat was rejuvenated four times.

First one vas was ligatured, then the other, and then it received testis grafts from its younger relatives; and by this means its span of life was lengthened by thirteen months. These prolongations do not sound large to us; but they mean a good deal to rats.

The normal span of life among Steinach's untreated rats is about twenty-seven months; thus the maximum prolongation which Steinach's rats achieved was nearly 50 per cent of this, which would be over thirty years in terms of human lifetime.

The experiment with repeated rejuvenation yielded a new fact. Each spell of renewed vigor was shorter than the one before, and was terminated by a more abrupt relapse into senility, until at last the animal collapsed all at once, like the deacon's "one-hoss shay" in the poem. Thus rejuvenation, of this type at least, is at best a temporary setting-back of the clock. There is some part of the body which is progressively ageing all the time, in spite of the best possible provision of hormones. We do not know for certain what this organ may be but may reasonably guess that it is the central nervous system. For in higher animals, brain-cells, unlike gland-cells or skin-cells, never divide. We end with the same equipment of brain-cells with which we were born. And it is a fact that brain-cells show marked shrinkage and other degenerative changes when they grow old.
